HIGHWAY WORK TO BEGIN NEAR M'KNIGHTSTOWN

All State-Hanover Co. will begin in the near future resurfacing of 2.16 miles of the Lincoln Highway extending from McKnightstown halfway to Gettysburg.

County Superintendent of Highways Clyde Garber said today that the Harrisburg concern plans to start the contract for resurfacing the Lincoln Highway as the firm completes its present contract for construction and resurfacing of battlefield avenues.

The three-inch layer of surfacing placed by All State-Hanover on the Lincoln Highway will be 20 feet wide. Construction crews from the state highway department here will place the shoulders along the stretch of newly resurfaced road. Total cost of the project, including the placing of the shoulders, is expected to be $49,234.

Let In Two Contracts
Garber said resurfacing of the Lincoln Highway is scheduled from McKnightstown to Gettysburg. The work is being let in two contracts. All State-Hanover secured the contract for placing the western half of the project. The bids for the eastern half have not been let as yet, but it is anticipated that the contracts will be let and the work completed sometime in the near future, possibly still this year.

While the present 4.32 miles of road between Gettysburg and McKnightstown is 20 feet wide, it actually is an 18-foot concrete road with one foot additional on each side. Few motorists take advantage of the additional surface, Garber noted, and as a result the 20-foot road will "in a sense provide more space for vehicular traffic."

While waiting for All State-Hanover to begin its work, the state highway crews have been busy with other work in the county. Today (Friday) the men will complete 30 miles of surface treating on roads throughout the county.

Other Work Underway
Resurfacing of the 3.16 miles of road between Fairfield and Zora is well underway. The leveling course — to take out the crown — has been placed, the base course was completed Thursday and the surface course will be on the middle of next week.

The state crews have completed the 3.45 miles of road from York Springs to the Cumberland County line on the Carlisle-Hanover Road. Three courses were also placed on that 18-foot road. The first course leveled out the highway to do away with the high crown of the old road. Then a base and a surface course were placed in the surfacing project.

With the completion of the Fairfield-Zora Road next week the crews will move to Route 01003, between New Oxford and Route 94, the "Berlin Road." The road is to be widened from 14 to 18 feet and resurfaced during the next several weeks.

Three Adams Countians attending Pennsylvania State University during the spring semester were among nearly 850 students cited for outstanding scholarship.

The three are: John W. Mickle, Gettysburg R. 2, junior in agriculture engineering, 3.55 average; Nancy L. Tate, Biglerville R. 2, junior in home economics, 3.53 average; and Max L. Sponseller, Abbottstown R. 1, sophomore in pre-veterinary, 3.53 average.

University President Eric A. Walker said 841 undergraduates were named to the dean's lists of various colleges and that 96 of them completed the semester with perfect 4.00 averages.

To qualify for the dean's list, a student must have completed the semester with an average of 3.50 or better and must have been enrolled for at least 12 credits.

SCOUT PICNIC AT LITTLESTOWN SET FOR JULY 27

The annual family picnic of the Black Walnut Boy Scout District will be held July 27 at the Littlestown Fish and Game association farm near Littlestown.

The date and place were decided upon Thursday night at a meeting of the Black Walnut District Camping and Activities Committee at the home of Paul Hollinger, Littlestown, a member of the group.

Crosby N. Hartzell, chairman of the committee, said the group anticipates that approximately 750 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers and their parents, brothers and sisters will be present for the event. Last year, despite poor weather, more than 500 turned out for a similar picnic held by the committee at the South Mountain Fairgrounds.

Registration Fee
Registration will take place at the Fish and Game grounds from 12 noon to 1 o'clock on the afternoon of Sunday, July 27. Each family will pay a registration fee of 25 cents which will be used toward the awards to be presented to the youngsters taking part in various games.

A fishing contest will be held with an award for the first fish caught, another for the biggest fish and a third for the most fish caught.

An expected highlight of the afternoon will be a baseball game between the Explorer Scouts and their fathers.

For the convenience of families which may not wish to bring a picnic lunch with them, or wish to augment the lunch they have, the committee plans to have hamburgers, hot dogs, cheeseburgers, soft drinks and candies available at the site, Hartzell said.

Posse Captures Prospector; Slew 2 New Mexico Children

REGINA, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico State Police today wounded and captured a bearded recluse who Thursday slew two children.

Police identified the captured man as Nelson A. Foose, 47. They said he once spent six months in an Idaho mental hospital.

Six officers, led by Sgt. Milton Mattoon of Santa Fe, closed in on the hermit's camp at dawn.

Carried Rifle
"I told him to come out and throw down his gun," Mattoon said. "He came out in the road with his hands up, but with the rifle still with him."

"I told him again to throw down the gun, and fired a warning shot into the bank. He didn't, and one of the officers shot him in the foot."

Regina is a tiny hamlet in the mountains of Sandoval County, about 100 miles north of Albuquerque.

100-Man Posse
About 100 men surrounded the camp where Foose Thursday night shot and wounded Sam Hill, one of the posse members.

Sgt. Albert Humphries And Wife Are Killed In Crash In Germany

Sgt. Albert Humphries and his wife, Gertrude, formerly of Seven Stars, were fatally injured as a result of an automobile accident in Germany July 4 about 12:30 p.m., according to a telegram received by George T. Raffensperger, trust officer of the Gettysburg National Bank, executor of their estates.

Their wills, entered for probate in the office of register and recorder this morning, gives the estate's value at $5,000.

Mr. Raffensperger said he received a telegram Thursday from the Air Force stating that Albert and Gertrude Humphries had been killed in an auto accident near Frankfurt. No details of the accident have been received. It is supposed that the couple were killed in the same car.

Friends here said they were told two of the three children were hurt in the same accident and are in a hospital in Germany.

Mrs. Russel Hackman, Biglerville, from whom the couple rented a residence in Biglerville in 1951, said Mrs. Humphries had been naturalized in the Adams County Courts and had planned to bring her parents to this country after Mr. Humphries had completed his 20 years with the Air Force in a matter of months.

The deceased was a sergeant with the AFROTC at Gettysburg College from 1949 to 1952 and was then stationed in Alaska for about 20 months. He returned for his family after being ordered to Germany in 1956. Humphries had built his own home in Seven Stars around 1951, and had lived there prior to leaving for Germany.

He was a member of the Gettysburg Good Samaritan Lodge 336, F. and A.M., Good Samaritan Royal Arch Chapter 256 and Gettysburg Commandery 79.

TELLS BENEFITS OF ELECTRICITY IN HOME HEATING

With the placing in effect of a new home heating rate, Metropolitan Edison Company is opening a campaign to acquaint all of its customers with the benefits of this ultra-modern heating system. William Lentz, MECO's local manager, said today.

"This program includes help in establishing additional retail outlets for the equipment, instructing electricians and builders in correct installation methods and providing operational details to contractors, architects, bankers and users. MECO's local office has been set up as an electric heating headquarters where full information can be obtained by anyone interested.

"Opening of this type of an activity at this time is most appropriate," Mr. Lentz said, "pointing out that it is a local answer to those who advocate the introduction of new products to stimulate business activity. 'Electric heating systems provide a quality product which can be installed for less money, thus reducing home construction costs. They may be slightly more expensive to operate, but this is more than compensated for by the lower initial cost, by the comfort and convenience provided and by the extremely new space required,' he said.

CATHOLIC VETS MAKE 1960 BID FOR CONVENTION

A formal invitation will be extended to the executive committee of the Catholic War Veterans of Pennsylvania to hold the annual state convention of the CWV here in June 1960.

Decision to invite the state group was made at a meeting of the convention committee of St. Joseph's Post, Catholic War Veterans, Bonneville, at the Hotel Gettysburg Thursday night.

At that session the committee found that more than sufficient are available for the 500 delegates and families expected to attend the sessions.

Plan Corby Service

The committee also plans to hold a service honoring Father Corby, the Catholic chaplain who gave absolution to the troops during the fighting here, as part of the convention sessions if the state group accepts the invitation.

The state executive committee will probably act on the invitation at the July 16 meeting at which it is to be presented. Joseph Clabaugh, past commander of the Bonneville CWV, and now a state director of the organization, will make formal presentation of the invitation. The state CWV selects its annual convention site two years in advance.

The convention includes annually a parade of the various marching units from Catholic War Veterans posts throughout the state.

Supporting the invitation from the local CWV post will be invitations from the local Chamber of Commerce and the local Travel Council, Julian Estep and Walter B. Lane, presidents of the two organizations, said this morning.

2ND BENEFIT 'HOP' PLANNED BY JAYCEES

Plans for a second Buddy Deane record hop, to be held Saturday, August 9, from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Gettysburg College dining hall, were outlined Thursday evening at a meeting of the Gettysburg Junior Chamber of Commerce at a meeting in the former CCC camp on W. Confederate Ave.

Donald Chamberlain, chairman for the hop, expressed the appreciation of the Jaycees to the college for permitting use of the air conditioned dining hall for the dance. The air conditioning is expected to help attract an even larger crowd than usual for the event, he said.

If a sufficiently large number attend, the Jaycees will have reached their goal of $1,000 to pay for the summer camp to be held by the Gettysburg High School football team this summer. A prior record hop, a Sports Night and other activities have been held in the attempt to raise the money for the camp. Tickets for the dance will be available at the door.

Sidney Steinhour is the local winner.

Richard Guise reported that Gregory Matland, local junior golf champion will take part in the state finals Saturday and Sunday at Carlisle Country Club at which four contestants will be selected to represent the state at the national junior golf tournament at Phoenix, Ariz.

Goldfine Mum On 23 Points Despite Contempt Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Counsel for House investigators today accused Bernard Goldfine of contempt of Congress after the Boston industrialist refused to answer 23 questions about his financial affairs.

The questions had been specially drawn up to prepare the way for possible contempt action.

Robert W. Lishman, lawyer for the subcommittee checking Goldfine's dealings with Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams and federal agencies, charged that Goldfine was in contempt.

Not Acted On Yet
The charge was not immediately acted on. But the subcommittee headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) had taken steps toward citing Goldfine for not answering questions which they said were pertinent to their inquiry.

Goldfine was asked particularly about financial matters connected with his East Boston Co., a holding firm, and its subsidiary, the Boston Port Development Co.

Goldfine declared again and again that these had nothing to do with the House probe of regulatory agencies, Harris said the questions definitely were pertinent.

Question Committee Right
"I contend that this subcommittee has no right to inquire into the internal affairs of the companies concerned," Goldfine maintained.

Lishman then told the subcommittee that Goldfine has refused to answer enough pertinent questions "to establish in my judgment that the witness is guilty of contempt."

That contempt, Lishman declared, consists of a Goldfine effort to prevent the subcommittee from performing the responsibilities of remedial legislation to take care of the public interest.

BURGLARS GET $60 BUT CAUSE DAMAGE OF $800

Burglars who broke into the Meadow Valley Abattoir, Gettysburg R. 3, about a mile north of here along the Biglerville Rd., during the night stole about $60 in silver and caused an estimated $800 damage to the cash register from which they took cash "the hard way."

State Police were called by Clifford Bucher, proprietor of the abattoir, shortly after he arrived at the establishment at 4:45 o'clock this morning and found that the cash register had been badly battered.

Entered Through Window

Bucher said this morning that whoever entered the building apparently did so through a side window which was found broken today. The burglars then used a hammer or bar on the cash register in what appeared to have been a frenzied attempt to get it open. The cash drawer was broken into pieces, glass in the register was smashed, sides were pried off and the electrically operated machine was described as "unrepairable."

The abattoir owner added that had the burglars simply pushed a key the unlocked register would have opened without difficulty.

The burglars apparently touched nothing else in the place, Bucher said. No meat nor any articles appeared to be missing.

VICE BARON TAKES REFUGE BEHIND FIFTH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chicago gangster Tony Accardo sought refuge behind the Fifth Amendment at the Senate racket hearings today, and just an appeal to prevent the televising of his appearance.

The reputed baron of rackets and vice in Chicago's underworld pleaded it might incriminate him to answer any question about his business or occupation. He argued unsuccessfully that televising his testimony would invade his privacy. The hearings are being televised live in Chicago.

The carefully tailored Accardo strode to the witness stand after his alleged West Chicago top henchman, Sam Battaglia, had refused to tell whether he served as executioner for the Capone gang.

Battaglia, a bleak-eyed, slim, graying man, refused to answer when asked whether he had helped to bludgeon and burn to death Estelle Carey in 1943. Battaglia also refused to say whether he had any part in a conspiracy to kill Abraham Teitelbaum, one-time lawyer to gangster Al Capone.

Accardo's unsuccessful attempt to block the televising of his testimony was made through his lawyer, H. Clifford Alder of Washington, who argued:

"He is neither an entertainer, an athlete nor a political figure."

"He is a private citizen whose rights of privacy should not be invaded. He is only here because of subpoena and is not here to appear on a television show."

A Chicago court denied Accardo a preliminary injunction to prevent the televising of his appearance by Station WBBK, Channel 7 in Chicago. But Alder argued that unless the injunction suit is completed with a decision against Accardo his rights of privacy should not be violated.

Beard Raps Borough For "Trap" On Rt. 22

HARRISBURG (AP) — Donald L. Beard, district traffic engineer, has accused Dauphin Borough of operating a speed trap on Rt. 22 just north of here.

The State Highways Department official also accused the borough of illegally extending a reduced speed zone past the borough jurisdiction.

In a letter Thursday to A. H. Townsend, borough council president, Beard outlined the extended zone, abolished within 60 days and the speed limit in the borough increased from 35 to 40 miles per hour.

"That speed trap business is ridiculous," Townsend said, adding: "I think the whole thing is asinine. On one hand the governor and the Governor's Safety Committee are screaming how speed kills and on the other hand the State Highways Department allows a 40 mile per hour limit."

Musmanno Raps State Constitution Change

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court said today he was amazed at the recommendation of the Constitutional Commission of Pennsylvania that the word "God" be left out in the proposed Pennsylvania constitutional change.

Justice Musmanno told the annual Pennsylvania Veterans of Foreign Wars convention to condemn what he called "This piece of effrontery to the people of Pennsylvania who are looking to God almighty for guidance in these dark and troublesome days."

"In God We Trust" to the currency of the United States. Only recently we added the words "under God" to the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States.

"Is the Constitutional Revision Committee of Pennsylvania attempting to take Pennsylvania out of the United States, as well as remove it from the riches of God's bounty?"

STORM SWEEPS ACROSS KANSAS

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A storm with hurricane-force winds, hail and heavy rain battered a wide Kansas area a few nights ago today, causing widespread damage at Topeka and a flash flood at Atchison.

A 12-year-old girl, drowned in a flooding creek at Topeka. The sheriff's office at Atchison said two persons drowned there.

The storm contained at least one tornado and possibly others. One funnel hit a farm 3½ miles west of Topeka, destroying a barn and two out-buildings, but dissipated before it reached the city. There were numerous unconfirmed reports of other tornado funnels.

Cuts Water Supply
At Atchison, the flood cut off the city's water supply, the State Highway Patrol said. A one-story building housing a book store caved in, and another building reportedly was damaged.

Rain at Topeka measured 3.90 inches, and drove Shunganunga Creek out of its banks.

More rain was forecast.

Topeka police said the winds, officially measured at up to 92 miles an hour, severed power and telephone lines, knocked down uncultured trees, and damaged numerous homes. Police said live wires lay exposed in several places.

SCHOOLFIELD IS FOUND GUILTY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Senate, in a special impeachment session, today convicted Judge Raulston Schoolfield of Chattanooga on one of 22 impeachment charges.

The vote, 24-7, was two more than required for conviction.

His conviction came on a charge that he accepted a new car in 1950 from known criminals, and also lawyers practicing in his court.

Eighth Charge
That was the eighth in the list of 22 charges on which the Senate voted. It had acquitted him on the previous seven.

The 22 charges against Schoolfield stemmed from a hearing last December before the U.S. Senate Labor - Management Investigating Committee in Washington.

He was acquitted on the charge which led to the original investigation—that he illegally directed innocent verdicts in arson, vandalism and assault charges against Glenn Smith, Chattanooga Teamsters Union president, and 12 other members of the union.

The Tennessee Senate sat as a high court of impeachment. Today's session was the climax of a five-week trial.

U. S.-CANADIAN HEADS COMPLETE INFORMAL TALKS

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

MASSENA, N. Y. (AP) — President Eisenhower stopped off at this northern New York village today to inspect the American portion of the billion-dollar St. Lawrence Seaway and power project.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower landed at 10:26 a.m. at the airport, for a civic reception and the start of a two-hour tour of dams, a canal and locks—one of them named for the chief executive.

Eisenhower paused here on the way back to Washington from his summit conference with Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker in Ottawa.

Cards On Table
In three days of informal, card-on-the-table talks Diefenbaker and Eisenhower agreed that:

(1) A joint cabinet committee on continental defense will be created; (2) the two governments will work on plans for safeguards against surprise attacks across the arctic; (3) consultations will be held on lower levels to try to dissolve differences over trade with Communist China by Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies.

While time will test the practical value of these agreements, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty pronounced them important and good steps forward.

Good Relationship
Hagerty said the closer personal relationship established between the two heads of government "is very good for both our countries."

Eisenhower, he said, "believes very much that this was a very worthwhile meeting."

Diefenbaker told the House of Commons a spirit of consideration had been shown for each other's problems that "bodes well for the future."

Eisenhower's visit came at a time when relations between the two countries have been marred by increasing Canadian complaints about various U.S. programs and policies.

Eisenhower was no tremendous magnet for crowds at his public appearances, but there was an utter absence of hostility.

U. S. MAY SEND EMERGENCY AID FOR LEBANON

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is seriously considering 20 to 40 million dollars in emergency aid for revolt-torn Lebanon to help its pro-Western government survive continuing rebel attacks.

At least part of this sum probably will be granted once the Lebanese have provided supporting data requested by the State Department.

Officials said Lebanon appealed for funds for relief projects and for expenses that have piled up during two months of bloody fighting.

Third Help Gesture
Extending such aid would be the third move by the United States to bolster the regime of President Camille Chamoun since fighting broke out May 10. Limited quantities of American weapons and ammunition already are being shipped. About 65,000 tons of emergency wheat shipments were promised two weeks ago.

Confidence mounted among State Department officials that Chamoun's embattled forces would be able to put down the rebellion and keep Lebanon in the pro-Western camp.

Most officials anticipated, Chamoun would agree to some kind of compromise bill, allowing him to step down in favor of a successor acceptable to pro-Western as well as opposition elements.

Eskimos in Alaska have a popular sport called "nalakutuk," or "blanket tossing." A tough walrus skin is used for the blanket, and the contestant is tossed high in the air. The winner is the one who can land and stay on his feet.

Empty Boat Proves To Be Faulty Lead

ANGOLA, Ind. (AP)—An unoccupied boat anchored in the center of Jimmerson Lake, containing a fishing pole baited and ready for use, set conservation officers to dragging the lake.

After two hours of futile work under the hot sun they called for a skin diver. While they were waiting they found the angler drinking beer in a cool lakeside tavern. He said two thirsty friends had rowed past on their way to the tavern, and he had changed boats and joined them.

Officers withheld the fisherman's name while they searched for a charge that would apply.

the monthly minimum of 100 KWH) is available to all customers using electricity as the sole primary method of heating their homes and for water heating. It is available to the customer upon installation of the electric units and their approval by the company.

Resistance units advocated by the company for this area can be in the form of wire imbedded in the plaster, panels built into the walls or baseboard units which blend into the room's decor. As many or as few units as needed can be placed where desired without interfering with furniture arrangement or requiring any special carpentry or masonry work.

They are operated automatically by a thermostat and each room of a house can be kept at a different temperature as desired. Once installed the owner is assured of continued automatic heating as there are no moving parts, nothing to clean and nothing to wear out. It's a lifetime installation.

"Heat" flows into the units over the house wiring system, leaving all the dirt, fumes and mess of combustion at the power plant miles away. "You might say that this is the ultimate step in taming heat," Mr. Lentz said. "When man first learned about fire it was outdoors and for hundreds of years he has struggled with ways and means of utilizing heat from fire without being bothered by smoke, fumes and vapor which is produced when any fuel is burned. MECO burns the coal at the power plant and sends electrical energy over wires to wherever it is needed."

To assure customers of proper and satisfactory service, MECO is coordinating the electric home heating program in this area. However, heating units will be sold by local dealers who are ready to plan and install complete heating systems. Names of these dealers are available at the local MECO office along with descriptive literature.

Thief Wants Vodka, Burns $500,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A detective says Lawrence Nutter, 23, Philadelphia, stole a case of negotiable American Express checks worth $500,000 and threw them away—because they weren't vodka. Detective Vincent Heeny told this story Thursday at a hearing. Nutter took three cases from the Railway Express Agency June 26 because he thought they contained vodka.

The first case Nutter opened was filled with vodka which he and a friend, William McCall, 28, sampled. McCall opened a second case.

"Take that stuff out of here. I don't want it," McCall told Nutter after rifling through the checks. Nutter obediently burned them in a city incinerator.

Magistrate J. Amos Harris held Nutter on $500 bail for trial.

75 miles northwest of Albuquerque.

Driving up in front of a grocery store, he stopped and leveled his deer rifle across the car window.

"I thought he was just bringing his rifle in to pawn it," said Weldon Vernon, clerk in the grocery store. "Then he fired. I ran out and the little girl was laying there. Then he shot a little boy and drove off as if he weren't in too much of a hurry."

The dead girl was Maria Cebada, 12. The soft-nosed 30-06 slug passed through her back and raked a flesh wound across the stomach of her mother Mrs. Sofia Cebada. Eddie Cebada, 13, nephew of the slain girl, was sitting 45 feet away on the porch of his family's store. The second bullet struck him in the right hip and severed an artery. He was dead on arrival at an Albuquerque hospital.

Allies Invade Sicily: Allied Headquarters in North Africa, July 10:
Allied armies invaded Sicily today and, with warplanes and warships in support, battled through coastal mine fields, barbed wire and gun emplacements in an effort to consolidate bridgeheads for the second European front.

American, British and Canadian forces of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command struck from landing barges by night, opening the big push that had been awaited since they cleared North Africa of the Axis two months ago.
"Swarms of Allied bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters, engaged sive blows of an aerial offensive weeks — roared across the Mediterranean narrows at dawn and fighting man aground.

Today's Talk

PRAISE
Praise is one of the great essentials — in the class with oatmeal, wholewheat bread, and crisp bacon. I like honest praise, as everyone does. I am sure, but I spurn all flattery. Sincere praise is what a goodly number of the human race pray daily that they may have. It's not whether that praise is for peasant or prophet.
If it's honest and from the heart,
it's manna from Heaven!

Praise is something that men and women live for. I care not what may create that praise, it's something the world is short of and ought to own more of. Many a business has been built with praise. Often it has been more than mere money. How would Edison, the elder Henry Ford, Alexander Graham Bell, and a host of others ever have achieved what they did had they received no praise for what they created?
I have discovered how quickly writers respond to praise. Many a theater, and many a book, has been killed off by some reviewer who personally did not like the play or book or so cheated the author by withholding just criticism.
Praise that would have delighted that author

The late Earl Derr Biggers once showed me a letter he had received from Robert H. Davis congratulating him on a story he had written for a magazine. It was called "Milly," I believe, and appeared in one of our popular magazines of that period. That early praise, Biggers told me, meant everything to him. When his book "Seven Keys to Baldpate" appeared I took my copy to him to inscribe, as we had been buddies on the Boston Traveler together.

This was the inscription he wrote in that book: "To George Matthew Adams, who has proved his friendship by purchasing a copy of this book."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Interests"

Just Folks

WINNING

It takes a little courage
And a little self-control,
And some grim determination
If you want to reach a goal.
It takes a deal of striving
And a firm and stern set chin.
No matter what the battle,
If you're really out to win.

There's no easy path to glory,
There's no rosy road to fame.
Life, however we may view it,
Is no simple parlor game;
But its prizes call for fighting,
For endurance and for grit.
For a rugged disposition
And a "don't-know-when-to-quit."

You must take a blow or give one,
You must risk and you must lose,
And expect that in the struggle
You will suffer from a bruise.
But you mustn't wince or falter
If a fight you once begin.
Be a man and face the battle—
That's the only way to win.

DAVIS CUPPERS AFTER 2ND WIN

TORONTO (AP) — Whitney Reed of Alameda tries to give the United States its second straight singles victory and a commanding lead in the semifinals of the American Zone Davis Cup competition today.
He meets Canadian champion Bob Bedard of Sherbrook, Quebec.

The opening singles match
Thursday resulted in an easy victory for Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, over Don Fontana of Toronto, 6-1, 6-2, 7-6. The Reed-Bedard match was postponed by rain.
The competition is three out of five, with the doubles set back to Saturday and the other two singles matches to be played Monday. A victory for Reed today would make it 2-0, and the United States would have to stake only the doubles or one more singles match to clinch its place in the zone final against Israel, Argentina or the West Indies.

PURKEY BLANKS GIANTS; PHILLIES PASS CARDINALS

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer
A pitcher's pride being what it is, Cincinnati's Bob Purkey might be hard pressed to pick between his own shutout string and the home run hitting of Larrupin' Lew Burdette.

Purkey pitched a dandy Thursday night, blanking second-place
San Francisco for the second time this season, 4-0, and extending his scoreless jinx over the Giants to 42 innings since May 7, 1955.

But pitchers more than likely will recall their hitting over anything short of a no-hitter, and Burdette built a memory that's a beast, driving in five runs with a pair of homers, one a grand slam, as Milwaukee beat Los Angeles
6-4.

Phil's Pass Cards
Burdette now has a total of four homers in the majors, both in pairs—tying Don Newcombe for the National League record for most times hitting two in a game
by pitchers.

While Burdette and Purkey were combining to put Milwaukee 1½ games ahead of San Francisco in the race, the Philadelphia Phillies skipped past St. Louis into third place by whipping the Cardinals
13-3. The Chicago Cubs beat Pittsburgh 8-7.

10 Walks, 13 Hits
The Phillies added 10 walks to 13 hits against the Cards. Solly Hemus' two-run homer capped a five-run fourth that beat Sal Maglie (2-2), and Harry Anderson, who drove in five runs, made it 8-2 with a two-run homer in the sixth.

Lee Walls drove in three runs, two with his 16th homer, and Bobby Thomson's two-run 10th homer gave the Cubs a six-run lead in the eighth. All the Pirates had were two runs on Frank Thomas' 23rd and 24th homers — but the lead was just enough as Dick Stuart, the minor league slugger, capped a five-run ninth with a two-run homer in his first major league game.

MARGOT MORTON WINS 3RD TITLE

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pretty Margot Morton, 15, Indiana, Pa., settled down today to the teen-age career of being the state's best girl golfer under 18.

She won her third straight junior girls title Thursday with a nine-stroke victory at Sandy Run. She completed her 54 holes with a gross 240, including an 81 yesterday.

Runner-up was Helen Marie Weiland, Philadelphia district junior champion. She scored 249, finishing with an 83.

Only one other girl has held the state junior title. She was Lonnie Sayre, Plymouth Country Club, in the first tournament in 1955. Since then, it's been all Margot.

A tournament rule prevented Margot from raking in all the prizes. Although she scored a selective score of 70, the honors for best selective score went to Diane Frazier, Merion Golf Club, with 71. Tournament rules forbid more than one prize per contestant.

Diane finished fourth in the tournament with 263. Donna Litke, Centre Hills Country Club, University Park, Pa., was third with 256.

Winston-Salem, N. C., of the Carolina League led Class B baseball teams in attendance in 1957, drawing 101,000 fans.

MEMPHIS MITE FACES LUDLOW IN LINKS PLAY

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The Memphis mite is on another golfing rampage.

You'd think Junie Buxbaum, 5 feet 6½ inch, 126-pound auto salesman, was the calmest competitor in the National Public Links tournament. It's hard to realize that in the past he twice gave up the game in disgust.

Junie, taking back slaps from his 18-year-old son, David, today tees off against bulky Bob Ludlow, a 220-pound Indianapolis physical education instructor, in the 36-hole semifinal.

Sikes-Patterson
Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla.,
27-year-old law student in the University of Florida and former
All-Army golf champion, faces Bob Patterson, the stocky stevedore from Portland, Ore., in the other semifinal.

The 36-hole windup Saturday will bring the winners together.
In double rounds Thursday,
Sikes eliminated defending champion and medalist, Don Essig of Indianapolis, 5 and 4, and Al Kelley of Orlando, Fla., 3 and 1.

Other Rounds

Patterson took Bob Kleckie of Chicago in 19 holes and Harry Musatto of Macon, Ill.

Buxbaum, the 1956 Public champion and a 1957 quarterfinalist, methodically advanced with a 3 and 2 decision over Warren Strout of Speedway, Ind., and a 4 and 2 victory over Bob Faulkenberry of Oklahoma City.

Ludlow defeated Charles Kline,
Roosevelt, N. M., 4 and 3, and Ron Lucetti, San Francisco, 2 and 1.

It is being developed by Leonard

JENSEN HITS GRAND SLAM AS BOSOX WIN

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox have regained a full share of second place in that runner-up race in the American League.

They have a 1½-game edge over the rest of the outsiders in the race after cracking the Chicago White Sox Thursday night. Jackie Jensen hammered a grand-slammer for his 25th home run.

That broke a tie with Kansas City, beaten twice at Baltimore in a two-night pair, 6-3 and 3-2, but didn't do much toward catching first-place New York. The Yankees swept a day-night double-header from Cleveland, 7-4 and 4-3 and lead by 11 games again.

Washington rapped Detroit 5-3 in the other AL game with three home runs.

Jensen, the major league homer and runs batted in (72) leader, capped a six-run fourth with the second slam of the season. Bob Keegan gave up the blast in relief of Early Wynn, who lost his seventh when Gene Stephens triggered the burst with a two-run homer, breaking a 1-1 tie.

Al Pilarcik's two doubles drove in three runs and Jim Busby singled home a pair in the opener for the Orioles, who jumped from seventh to fifth. Arnie Portocarrero won his seventh in the nightcap. He had a three-hit shutout with two out in the ninth — then was slugged for Bob Cerv's third home run and Roger Maris' 12th.

20th Ever Sievers
The Senators made it with Roy Sievers' two-run 20th homer, Clint Courtney's fourth, after a Sievers' single, and Jim Lemon's 10th. But they lost their lone All-Star, shortstop Rocky Bridges, indefinitely when his jaw was broken by a pitch from loser Frank Lary (8-6). Dick Hyde's relief work saved it for Pete Ramos (7-6).

The Yankees, cracking a string of seven winless games at home, came from behind in both contests. Jerry Lumpe's two-run double off losing reliever Hoyt Wilhelm (2-4) capped a four-run eighth in the nightcap after Gary Bell had blanked 'em on five hits. Elston Howard drove in three runs in the opener, tripling for a three-run fourth that handed Jim (Mudcat) Grant a 6-7 record.

Capitani Is Sent To Olean, N. Y., Team

Frank Capitani, former Gettysburg College star, is now playing for the Olean, N. Y., team of the Class D New York-Pennsylvania League.

Capitani was signed by the Philadelphia Phillies for a sizeable bonus last month following his graduation. He was assigned to Williamsport of the Class A Eastern League but found the transition and 19-day layoff between reporting and the conclusion of his collegiate career too great as he failed to hit consistently. Latest available figures reveal he collected six hits in 42 times at bat for Williamsport.

The ex-Bullet all-around athlete, an outfielder, batted over 500 during his final collegiate season.

Top Games Sunday At Arendtsville And Cashtown

The largest crowd of the season is expected at Arendtsville Sunday afternoon when Arendtsville meets Jefferson in a game which will decide first place in the South Penn Baseball League. The teams are currently tied with 12-1 records. Earlier in the season Arendtsville won at Jefferson 4-2.

Other games scheduled Sunday include Greenmount at Bonneauville, Brushtown at Harney, and Hunterstown at Mummaburg.

Pen-Mar Games
Fairfield and Cashtown renew an old rivalry at Cashtown in the Pen-Mar League. Fairfield is the league leader while Cashtown is in fifth place.

Completing the Sunday program will be the following games: Littlestown at Emmitsburg, Taneytown at Hanover, Union Bridge at Blue Ridge Summit.

Emmitsburg Little League

The Giants moved into a first-place tie with the Red Sox in second half play as they beat the Cards Thursday evening 19-8 with a 14-hit attack. The Giants, winners of the first half race, have not lost since the opening day of the season in early June when they were edged by the Red Sox 4-3. The two teams played a 15-15 tie to open the second half.

The winners hopped off to nine runs in the first three innings and were never headed. A big seven-run fourth inning put the game out of reach for the Cards.

Manager Dick Harner and his aides, Don Byard and Tip Harbaugh, will direct the league's all-star practice this evening at 6:15 o'clock.

There will be no league play next week but the Yankees will practice Monday evening.

Capitani Is Sent To Olean, N. Y., Team

Frank Capitani, former Gettysburg College star, is now playing for the Olean, N. Y., team of the Class D New York-Pennsylvania League.

Capitani was signed by the Philadelphia Phillies for a sizeable bonus last month following his graduation. He was assigned to Williamsport of the Class A Eastern League but found the transition and 19-day layoff between reporting and the conclusion of his collegiate career too great as he failed to hit consistently. Latest available figures reveal he collected six hits in 42 times at bat for Williamsport.

The ex-Bullet all-around athlete, an outfielder, batted over 500 during his final collegiate season.

MYSTERY OF SUBPOENAS IS SOLVED

BOXING PROBE SPORTS
NEW YORK (AP)—The mystery of the wholesale serving of subpoenas the night of the Virgil Atkins-Isaac Logart fight last March 21 has been solved with the indictment of boxing matchmaker Jimmy White.

The 51-year-old New Yorker was named Thursday by a grand jury on charges of conspiracy to fix the bout in question, and acting as an "undercover manager" for Logart. He pleaded innocent and was released on $2,500 bail.

Indict Wallman Too
The jury also linked Herman (Hymie the Mink) Wallman in the indictment as a coconspirator but not as a defendant. Last week, in an indictment returned against boxer Bert Grant, Wallman also was named as a coconspirator.

Ironically, the fix attempt on the Atkins-Isaac bout failed to come off. The conspiracy count accused White and Wallman of acting in concert in planning to bring certain officials, one of whom was expected to be Grant. However, Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office said none of those expected to be named officials was assigned to the fight and no bribe overture was made to the officials who did serve.

Atkins, far behind, rallied to knock out Logart in the sixth round of their welterweight elimination bout. Atkins then knocked out Vince Martinez in St. Louis June 6 to win the vacant welter crown.

Hess Antiques defeated the W-I Warehouse 6-1 in the first game of Thursday's softball doubleheader to move into a tie with their defeated opponents for fourth place.

Each team found it difficult to score hits, the Antiques garnishing five while the Warehousemen rapped but four.

A five-run rally in the last of the fifth gave the Moose an 8-6 decision over the News Agency as the winners moved into third place.

The News Agency led 4-2 going into the last of the fifth. They tabbed a run in the first on a triple by Redding and single by Handwork, another in the second on consecutive hits by Weitzel, Decker and Bickel, one in the third on an error and triple by Beck, and two more in the fifth on triples by Handwork and Beck.

The Moose, who scored twice in the first frame on two errors, came to life in fifth. B. Cole singled and Gilbert reached base on an error. G. Staley singled home Cole but Gilbert was out trying to score. Ken Fair popped to shortstop, Dillman doubled, driving in two more tallies and George Fair followed with another double to add two more runs.

Dillman took over for Woodward on the mound for the Moose in the sixth to preserve the victory.

Gettysburg Little League

The league-leading Swope's Aero had little trouble in disposing of the third place Exchange Club in a Big League contest Thursday evening on the college diamond as the Swope's won 10-1.

Tate went the distance for the winners allowing only four hits, two of which were belted by John McClellan. Ron Gigous ran into trouble throughout the game giving up 11 hits.

Swope's scored most of their runs on the strength of Earl Little's pair of doubles and a triple. The Exchange tallied their lone run in the bottom of the second when Kint got on via an infield miscue and Dave Stoner lashed a double to center scoring the runner.

Jim Herring and Earl Little were the big guns of the game with their three hits each.

Managers Bob Weikert's and Bob Signor's outfit came through with their initial run in the fourth on a single by Rick Jones, a walk to Mike Herring and a ground ball by Jim Redding.

Pine fielding plays by Rich Fair and Jimmy Redding's throws to second holding runners were the main features of their respective team's defensive play.

Rick Jones went the distance for the Breammen to record his first win of the season, while little Bobby Greiner, who tossed good ball, is charged with the loss. Tom Whittinghill was the big man of the evening, belting out a pair of hits for three trips to the plate.

As the Bream team collected only five scattered hits.

His First Steps...

He stands with his legs quivering ever so slightly, ready to put forth first one foot . . . and then the other.

This is a great moment, and it might be frightening if it were not for the strong, steady clasp of his mother's hand. She is there to guide him . . . to catch him if he falls.

But the time will come when he'll have to let go of his mother's hand, and go forth on his own. Even then, he will need guidance. His mother is taking care of that, too. Already, he attends church with his parents on Sundays and slowly but surely he will begin to learn the meaning of faith. Children must be taught to take spiritual as well as physical steps. The Church stands ready to teach them.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SOCIAL JUSTICE AND THE GOSPEL

Matthew 5:7-20, 46-48; 23:23-26

Key Verse: Whatever you wish that men would do to you, do so to them; for this is the law and the prophets. Matthew 7:12.

This key verse comes as a climax to Jesus' famous Sermon on the Mount and is the Christian version of the Golden Rule. The traditional versions of ancient religions — Hebrew, Chinese, Hindu, and even Moslem — were in the negative but Jesus gives the Golden Rule new emphasis by making it positive.

Just as justice and mercy are part of the nature of God, so are the teachings of Jesus Christ. It is most appropriate that Matthew, the Jewish tax collector who became one of the Twelve, should be the author of the first book of the New Testament, bridging the gap between the two Testaments. Matthew shows Jesus as the Messiah who came to fulfill the law and prophecies of the centuries before, and because of the nature of his Gospel, there are many references to the Old Testament.

The books of the New Testament do not appear in the order in which they were written for I Thessalonians was probably the first portion written. The arrangement of the books was determined by the Council of Carthage in A.D. 397. It seems almost ironical that a despised tax collector should have had such a prominent part in the writing of the Scriptures. His gospel was written primarily for the Hebrew Christians of Rome.

Justice A Principle

Justice in human relationships was one of the principles of Christ's teachings. This was a bit difficult to get across to His Jewish brethren because they had been trained in a rigid school of orthodoxy. The Pharisees considered themselves "apart" or "separated" from the other Hebrews because they kept all the ceremonial law with great earnestness. Many of the Pharisees were conscientious, devout men, but their righteousness was mainly observance of outward rules. When Jesus, therefore, introduced new interpretations of the laws and tried to show men that man's relationship to God and his inner spirit were the important things, the Pharisees were vexed or defiant.

What is true religion? There can be no genuine or sincere outward observance unless there is an inner desire to love, trust, and serve God faithfully. Men cannot measure the inner spirit by the outward observance, but both are necessary. Evidence of outward observance is two-fold: toward God through worship, prayer, giving; toward our fellow men through kindness, mercy, justice, and forgiveness.

Jesus detected hypocrisy as one fault of the Pharisees and tried to change their attitudes toward and treatment of publicans and sinners. However, He tried to assure these Jewish religious leaders that He had not come to abolish the law and the prophets but to fulfill them. But He did accuse them of neglecting "the weightier matters of the law, justice and mercy and faith; these you ought to have done, without neglecting the others." According to custom the Pharisees even strained the wine to avoid swallowing an unclean insect.

Need Self-Examination

In Matthew's gospel, Jesus directs his hearers' attention to their actions or "doings" — how they treat other people. The way a person treats another indicates whether he is a Christian at heart or a Christian in name only. Jesus condemned all those who pretend to be what they are not. That is the reason He condemned the Pharisees so harshly.

Everyone needs to examine himself and his own attitudes carefully and prayerfully. It takes God's grace to be able to show love, kindness, and justice to those who have no claim on us or who do not respond to us in any way. On the other hand it is easy to love those who love us. Jesus tells us, "You, therefore, must be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect."

One Traffic Light Ruled Not Enough

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Highways Department has ruled that one traffic light facing in each direction is not enough.

The department said that intersections where signal lights are used to control traffic must have two traffic signals facing each direction.

Lewis M. Stevens, Highways Secretary, said Thursday that the new policy will help eliminate dangers which arise when large vehicles obstruct the view of a single light or when a red lamp burns out.

NETWORKS PLAN PRESTIGE SHOWS FOR SUNDAY TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Television's culture corner—Sunday afternoon—will be returned to the thinkers, the intellectuals and the critics in the fall with some slight remodeling.

Omnibus, for instance, will be back on NBC—but cut to an hour's length and presented on alternate Sundays. Wide, Wide World, which lost its sponsor, may be missing from the lineup. Ed Murrow's new Small World may be dropped into CBS' Sunday schedule. Such programs as Conquest, Twentieth Century, Comment, Outlook and the news interview shows are expected to return.

The Sabbath's Snug Harbor is emerging as a unique period in television's programming. Large numbers of average citizens have found intelligent talk, stimulating drama and good music a welcome change from a steady diet of mayhem, audience participation shows and giveaways.

Historically, Sunday afternoon has attracted comparatively small audiences. Hence it has been difficult to sell to sponsors interested in reaching the masses with their toothpaste, cigarettes, lipsticks or some such product.

Holdup Man Was Desperate For $47

DETROIT (AP)—Service station operator James Hill said a man carrying a .22 rifle walked into his station Wednesday night and "told me to put the money on the counter, so I put out $160."

Hill said the gunman told him "I only want $47. Count it out." Hill counted out $47 and gave it to the man who said, as he left, "I only need $47 and that's all I'm taking. I hope you understand. I need it desperately."

bought in all income brackets. More recently, however, networks have been discovering that their Sunday afternoon viewers were folks to be proud of—substantial, smart, educated, bankrolled. One reason has been sponsor interest by companies who want to reach more affluent audiences.

But many of the Sunday afternoon shows have remained without sponsors. They have continued partly because the shows give prestige to the networks. As a matter of fact, when NBC or CBS are of a mind to boost about their programs or attempt to prove that not all programming consists of Westerns, who-dun-its and panels they are likely to use a Sunday afternoon show to point up the argument.

Still another reason for the networks' continued willingness to go on underwriting live Sunday afternoon shows is that they have proved a valuable workshop in which to develop and refine ideas and skills.

RESCUERS SAVE SANDERS FROM CANYON LEDGE

ALAMOSA, Colo. (AP)—The terrible ordeal was over, but husky John L. Sanders shook his head at doctors.

Sleep, he said, was the last thing he wanted. He was too keyed up.

Sanders, 35, had been rescued a few hours earlier Wednesday from the tiny ledge on a canyon wall where he had spent five days and nights. During the first 48 hours, he slept not at all for fear he would fall 300 feet as his friend and fishing partner had done last Friday.

Companion Killed
William E. Garver, 38, auditor for the University of New Mexico, died in the plunge down the face of Conejos Canyon northwest of here. His body was recovered Tuesday.

Sanders, an Albuquerque businessman, clung to his three-by-four-foot rock shelf, alternately shouting and praying, for three days. He was spotted Monday, given his first food Tuesday, rescued by Army mountaineers shortly after noon Wednesday.

They lowered him by litter to the base of the 800-foot rock wall. From there, the 6-foot, 200-pound man walked three miles and rode a horse another mile to a waiting ambulance and his wife Carolyn.

In Good Condition
Sanders was taken to Alamosa Community Hospital, where physicians said he survived the ordeal in surprisingly good condition.

Doctors barred reporters. They said later they finally prevailed on Sanders to take a sedative.

Outside Room 12 at the hospital, Mrs. Sanders said her husband had fought sleep during all his long hours on the ledge. He told her that when he began to doze Monday, his third day, he removed the laces from his boots, put his feet around a tree beside the ledge and tied them together.

Afraid Of Sleep
"He was afraid he might fall asleep and fall from the ledge," she said.

The brunette mother said her husband related that he and Garver fell from the canyon lip about 6:30 p. m. Friday while returning from a fishing trip in the primitive mountain country near the Colorado-New Mexico border.

"He said they both fell and rolled about 300 feet and landed against some gnarled trees. John said he saw Bill about 30 yards away and yelled to him 'Don't move. Hold on to the tree.' But Bill apparently tried to get a better footing and fell again."

Made No Sound
"He must have known when he fell that it was over," Mrs. Sanders quoted her husband, "because he didn't make a sound."

To attract the attention of any searchers who might have approached from above, the New Mexico businessman fashioned a

Penna. 4th Of July Traffic Toll Down

HARRISBURG (AP)—A 50 per cent reduction from 1957 in Fourth of July weekend traffic fatalities brought praise Wednesday from Gov. George M. Leader.

The Commonwealth's holiday traffic death toll was 14 for the period from 6 p. m., Thursday, to 12 midnight Sunday, Leader noted.

"This figure is much lower than last year's and indicates a better record than that of other major states," he added.

In 1957 there were 26 persons killed in traffic accidents in the state during the Fourth of July holiday period.

CAREER BELLE MOTOR EDITOR ADVISES WIVES

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Margo Wood is a glamorous green-eyed Southern belle who has made a career of back-seat driving.

Every day she tells scores of men drivers where to go, and they love it. Many write her letters of thanks for steering them right. And to top it all off, she gets paid for this.

As head of a major touring center in New York City, Margo directs the activities of a staff of six girls who advise motorists on routes, highways, scenic tours and map-reading.

Motoring First Mate
"I guess I was born to be a back-seat driver," she says. "When I was in school my favorite subject was geography and my favorite hobby making maps. When I got married my husband used to travel a lot, and I always went along, road map in hand, and steered him around detours and road hazards. He didn't mind a bit. In fact he grew to depend on me as motoring first mate."

After all, a man can't drive a car, watch the road and read a map all at the same time.

Margo started her business career as a receptionist for the War Production Board in Washington during the war and rapidly progressed to the job of assistant to the chief of the crane and shovel division. In this capacity she was responsible for allocation of road-building equipment, and got her first intensive training on the status of the nation's highways.

She continued her road work after the war, attending meetings of highway contractors and road-builders. After the death of her

It was his cries for help that first attracted the attention of a search party Monday, however.

INQUIRY FIASCO CASTS GOLDFINE IN MARTYR ROLE

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine's energetic lawyers and publicity men couldn't have helped their client more if they had written the script themselves.

A new political complexion has been put on what is currently the nation's most publicized inquiry by the weird, after-midnight episode of the "bugging" of a hotel room occupied by Goldfine's aides and the subsequent firing of a congressional investigator caught in the act.

The political cake was iced by the reported pilfering of documents from the hotel room of Goldfine's secretary.

Cast As Martyr
Bernard Goldfine, the self-styled poor boy from Russia who became a rich, gift-giving friend of the mighty in public office, temporarily is cast in a martyr's role.

He now can claim he is the intended victim of undercover operations that, as his legal and publicity experts helped him say, were "worse than being in Russia."

Baron I. Shacklette, the now departed investigator for the House subcommittee on legislative oversight, has said he was overzealous in planting a microphone at the door of a room occupied by Goldfine's helpers.

Underdog Status
As a target for that action, the Boston industrialist has assumed the status of an underdog.

He is in a position to cry persecution when pressed about his financial affairs. He now can suggest—with a certain amount of public sympathy—that there may be some dirty business behind the inquiry into why he paid hotel bills for presidential assistant Sherman Adams, loaned him a $2,400 Oriental rug and gave him the vicuna cloth for an expensive coat.

Investigations usually are messy affairs. People don't tell on themselves voluntarily. Most tips come from enemies of those under investigation. The informer—or stoolpigeon, if you prefer—is an accepted source of tips in criminal inquiries. Hotel rooms have been bugged before, telephones tapped.

Question Fair Play
The public knows this. But it doesn't like to think such methods would be employed by a congressional committee. When any of them are, the suspicion arises that politics—and not fair play—is in command.

Because the Democrats control the congressional committees, they can't escape any odium that may attach itself to their staffs.

The House subcommittee is in a bad light. Its motives under suspicion. Republicans who wish to defend Adams have an opening to cry smear. Democrats can blame Shacklette and his "bug" for clouding an issue they believed might go big for them in November and in 1960.

husband she took her present job in 1952.

As a veteran driver, both back-seat and front-seat, she has some advice for wives: "If you want to be popular with your husband, learn to read road maps. Don't just sit there and nag him when you're on the road together. If you'll take the trouble you can be a real help as chief navigator. And your husband will be grateful, instead of annoyed."

Finds Wallet With $1,500 In Checks

BALT. LAKE CITY (AP)—Joseph C. Johnson was strolling down the street thinking about his recent spinal surgery when he saw a wallet on the sidewalk.

Not wanting to bend over, he waited for someone to come along and pick up the wallet.

Finally, he stepped into a store and got a clerk to come out and pick it up. Inside, they found $1,500 in traveler's checks.

Police, notified of the wallet, stopped a bus headed out of the city and returned the wallet to William Steel, Warwick, N.J. Officers relayed Steel's thanks to Johnson.

RETURNS MONEY HELD 14 YEARS

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Teresa Ahedo was walking in a Detroit park with her infant granddaughter in her arms 14 years ago when she lost her purse. It contained a rosary and $290 in checks, coins and bills.

The 65-year-old widowed cleaning woman got the purse and its contents back Wednesday.

It was returned by the Rev. Thomas Verardi of Holy Trinity Church.

Father Verardi said that three months ago a stranger called on him and told him that he saw a woman with a baby in her arms drop her purse on Belle Isle in July 1944. The man said he picked up the purse, and intended to return it but instead was overpowered by the desire for a drink.

He spent the $103 in cash but put the purse away in a trunk. It still held the rosary, two endorsed paychecks and 80 cents in coin.

The stranger said that as the years passed he stopped drinking, got a job and gradually replaced the money he had spent. Then he sought out Father Verardi and told him: "I trust you find this woman and return her money."

Father Verardi found Mrs. Ahedo Wednesday night.

"I will use some of this money to light candles for this stranger," she told the priest. "In his heart he is a good man."

Royale Dairy Believes In Best Products

"Sales are the life blood of any business. Without it there is no business. Realizing this fundamental truth, Mrs. E. M. Depuy, founder of the Royale Dairy Company, Hanover, formed the sales policy of her company before she delivered her first bottle of milk."

So reads the opening paragraph of a two-page article featuring the Royale Dairy in a bimonthly issue of "Circle," a trade magazine published by the Cherry-Burrell Corporation and distributed to its customers.

The article continues: The best way to sell is the time-honored procedure of having a better product or better service. Thus, from a business angle, Mrs. Depuy made up her mind to produce a better product and give better service.

Decide To Pasteurize

As a woman and knowing that as a dairywoman she would be dealing largely with women, Mrs. Depuy believed she should offer the very best product possible.

Pasteurization was not widely practiced by dairies in the smaller communities around Hanover way back in 1927. Raw milk was the product of the day. Mrs. Depuy had read about Miss Alice Evans, a technician of the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, who contracted undulant fever from working with raw milk.

Even closer to home, Mrs. Depuy had read about a woman who had been given her child the best raw milk that was available in her town. However, the child was sickly and when taken to a well-known physician, he advised the woman to change dairies. Shortly afterward, the "best cared-for cows" of the first raw milk dairy were found to be tubercular. The child had also contracted the dread disease.

These cases made a deep impression upon Mrs. Depuy who swore that no child would ever become sickly from her milk products. She decided to pasteurize her milk.

Up-Hill Battle

She fought a hard up-hill battle against her raw milk competitors. By careful control work, she never gave competition a chance to tag her milk as having "that pasteurized flavor." Finally, when pasteurized milk became law, it gave the Royale Dairy a tremendous advantage over competitors and provided further evidence that Mrs. Depuy was a progressive dairy operator.

Mother And Housewife

So much for the production angle.

All necessary playing equipment a well-lighted playing area and plenty of parking space are provided at the nine-hole par three golf course for day and night play at the Lincoln Way Golf Center along Route 30 at the Fayetteville by-pass.

Now, how did Mrs. Depuy build volume?

As she analyzed her situation in the beginning, Mrs. Depuy realized she was invading man's domain. That was a weak point, but, virtually all home-consumed milk was purchased by mothers and housewives. She herself was both a mother and a housewife. Thus, she believed herself in a better position to understand the basic buying appeals of her dairy's consumers. This was her strong point, and punch it home, she did.

In the beginning, as soon as her processing duties were finished, for the day, Mrs. Depuy went out to call and talk with housewives in their homes. Being a woman, the housewives tended to let their hair down a little, giving Mrs. Depuy a better chance to tell her story. She was also handy with recipes, suggestions to typical problems, and genuine understanding of the troubles of her sister homemakers.

Introduced White Uniforms
When Mrs. Depuy started in business, the average route-man wore dirty work clothes. Realizing that women do look at other people's dress and are especially critical of other women's dress, she eliminated this possible weak point by going out in a white uniform that was trimmed in blue.

To carry the color scheme even further, she applied the white and royal blue color combination to her delivery truck. This gave her an opportunity in her sales presentation to tie in the white with cleanliness and the royal blue with the name of her business and her slogan, "Fit for a King."

This color scheme set Mrs. Depuy apart from her competitors and built the implication that her talk of cleanliness was genuine and not just sales chatter.

In addition to developing a receptive attitude among customers, Mrs. Depuy maintained a constant look out for sales opportunities. One quart here, another there, does not add up to much in one day, but over a year's time, makes a tidy sum. For example, when she went out to pick up empties, Mrs. Depuy always carried some milk. This resulted not only in direct sales but the feeling that the Royale Dairy was giving a little extra service at no extra cost.

Most interested in sales than taking a day off, Mrs. Depuy used to make cheese on Sunday afternoons so she could carry it with her on her Monday morning collection rounds. When out on these Monday morning trips, the omnipresent milk carrier was always there, standing where the customer could see it, while the bill was being paid. "I never let a sales opportunity get by me," says Mrs. Depuy.

It is just 30 years ago that Mrs. Depuy began her present business in a small building immediately behind her present location. From the very beginning she set to construct a modern sanitary dairy. While she sawed lumber to the correct size, her late husband, Mr. Swartz, nailed it into position. Unfortunately, she lost her husband shortly afterward, and the Royale Dairy turned into a one-woman show. Today, two sons and a son-in-law Charles and Eugene Swartz and Richard Bankert, are taking over more and more of the detail of operating a busy plant.

Not Result Of Chance
On her first day on a route, she ceremoniously started out carrying four bottles of milk, carefully delivering three of these to friends and solemnly leaving the fourth on her own doorstep. The equipment in those days was bell-driven, but just as soon as she was financially able, she changed to motor-driven machines so that plant operations would be more sanitary.

In continually striving for a better product, Mrs. Swartz is no flash-in-the-pan. For example, in her locality, she was first to pasteurize milk; first to wear a white uniform; first to use an integrated color scheme; first to make cheese; first to make chocolate milk; first in butter, first in homogenized milk; and first in homogenized Vitamin D.

Backs Up Good Product
This latter achievement makes her particularly proud. She introduced homogenized Vitamin D milk during World War II when fathers were away from home and mothers were working overtime in war plants and engaged in other war-associated activities. Mrs. Depuy believes that homogenized Vitamin D helped in no small way to keep children's diets up to minimum standards. It also developed a demand for thousands of quarts of milk for Royale Dairy.

Here is another case, this time of a woman, who started from scratch and not too many years later has built a fine progressive business. Again, this success story was accomplished by first making, then establishing a fine product, and continually and constantly backing it up. As Mrs. Depuy says, "I never let a sales opportunity get by me."

Optimism is more important to business than cash is to buyers.

Fulfillment Of Zerfing's Dream Is Near

The fulfillment of hardware merchant George M. Zerfing's dream, that of giving improved and a more complete service to his customers, is just around the corner. The time set for the fulfillment is September 1 when he will move his hardware business from Lincoln Square to 11 and 13 Baltimore St.

The remodeling of the former Gay's Jewelry and Haines Shoe Stores is moving along rapidly. This week a new marquee, the "only one like it in Gettysburg," was installed. It will serve a dual purpose, according to James Reaver, manager of the store, that of protecting customers from the rain and keeping the sun and heat out of the building.

To Move Labor Day

September 1, Labor Day was chosen so that we will not have to interrupt our service to customers." The new location will include three times the present floor space with the addition of a basement which has been dug to eight feet under the 28 by 80-foot store.

The complete street level floor will be used for customer service and some selling will be done from the basement although it will primarily be used for the storage of small items. Bulky items will still be stored in the three warehouses presently maintained by the firm.

With the additional floor space and installation of all steel modern store fixtures, wall units all around the store and three rows of gondolas, all merchandise will be on display. The great advantage of this arrangement will be a price tag on each item and on each display unit so that customers may serve themselves if they wish, although the present staff will be on hand to give the same prompt service as now. The complete display of merchandise will give the Zerfing staff more time to advise or answer questions.

To Expand Lines

The new store will also provide the customer with a new line in houseware and the expansion of all other lines including plumbing and electrical fixtures.

The air-conditioned store will make shopping a pleasure whether the customer is inspecting the new line of merchandise or making selections from the firm's present line of goods such as glass, cleaning aids, power tools, hardware or paint. Manager James Reaver noted that the service in the store will be much improved over the service during the transition period as soon as the firm is settled in the new store. A special sale is planned just prior to the move to the new

TO SELL NEW PA. BOND ISSUE

HARRISBURG (AP) — A Philadelphia firm will sell a 30 million dollar bond issue for the General State Authority to finance the authority's construction program.

The contract was awarded to Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia, after the authority opened bids on the issue Wednesday. The firm offered $29,406,000 for the issue at an average interest rate of 3.33 per cent, for a total interest cost of $15,402,800.

The new issue will bring the authority's total debt up to 310 million dollars. Its authorized debt limit is 480 millions.

In other action the authority: Decided to revise the priority for purchasing land for Bloomsburg State Teachers College, giving first priority to acquisition of the Harry A. Heiss property adjacent to the college. Purchase of the country club site, originally given top priority, was dropped to 20th on the list of 23 parcels to be acquired by the GSA for use by the various teachers colleges.

store and, once the firm is well-established again, a grand opening will be held which will include special prices and many free items.

Each department in the new store will be a different color, the display cases will be made of metal peg-board for the arrangement of merchandise and new fluorescent fixtures to give a warm white light are being installed. The new lights will be easier on the eyes and will bring out the natural color of the merchandise, Reaver noted.

None Injured As Bus Catches Fire On Pike

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — A Greyhound bus en route from New York to Chicago caught fire and burned Thursday on the Pennsylvania Turnpike one mile east of the Beaver Valley Interchange. The driver and passengers escaped unharmed.

The driver, John M. Bee, 28, of Pittsburgh, pulled the bus off the roadway when he noticed smoke coming from a rear wheel.

He ordered the passengers out while he attempted to fight the blaze. The fire spread quickly, causing extensive damage throughout the vehicle. The nearby Hampton Twp. fire department finally extinguished the blaze.

The passengers were transferred to another bus.

State police said the blaze apparently was started by a defective tire which became overheated.

Center Aims For Customer Satisfaction

"Large enough to serve you—small enough to know you," the motto of the Gettysburg Furniture Center, West St., means SERVICE, courteous service spelled in capital letters, for each and every patron.

But no one need take another's word that service is stressed at the Gettysburg Furniture Center. And don't ask Manager Thomas Coleman either—just visit the center and prove for yourself the following points.

Ample free parking and shopping hours from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day except Sunday is translated to mean "service" when the store patron can drive right up to the center's door, leave his or her automobile with no fear of parking tickets or of returning to find the auto blocked by another vehicle and can do all this when it fits into the family schedule.

Free and prompt delivery up to 50 miles from the store is translated into patron language to mean "service." And this multi-meaning word "service" carries the connotation that the merchandise will be delivered to the patron's home just as it appeared on display.

Immediate Delivery
And speaking of display, all articles featured at the center are sold from the floor and are available for immediate delivery. "Service" here means that the patron can make a selection from a number of patterns, colors, designs and models. Or, if the patron wishes, he may make his purchases and have the delivery made to coincide with his move into a new home or the completion of redecorating.

If the patron is installment buying, "service" at the Gettysburg Furniture Center includes absolutely no carrying charges on any accounts for terms up to one year. Or, if the patron wishes, terms can be arranged for as long as 24 months. The center finances all of its accounts.

"Service" is translated also to mean interior decorating advice. Manager Thomas Coleman, who is especially trained in that work, is frequently called upon to visit homes and make suggestions as to the furniture to be placed to match the mode and ideal of the home and the other furniture there.

Carry Name Brands
Yet another meaning is given to "service" at the Gettysburg Furniture Center. Manager Coleman puts it this way: "We carry good name-brand furniture so that our customers can buy our merchandise with confidence. With name brand merchandise, customers know what they are getting, whereas, otherwise, they may buy just a price tag and hope that they are getting furniture that is durable."

"Furniture is one of the best investments that people can make today. It outlasts anything else that they can buy for the relative small cost to them. For example, some will pay $2,000 for an automobile which will last approximately five years being used about one hour per day. However, for approximately $300 they can buy a good Kroehler living room suite, use it approximately six to eight hours daily (actual use) and expect it to last 15 to 20 years. Compare this investment with anything else you can buy today."

And if the customer has furniture he wishes to trade in on a new

TOP ADVISORS COMBAT THREAT OF INFLATION

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a small but influential group in Washington, known simply as "The Four," which suspects that the hardest economic battle remains to be fought—and is girding for it.

The enemy won't be recession but inflation. The signs of business upturn have been noted hopefully; it appears that a modest recovery may be under way this fall.

If so, the recovery will coincide with the start of a new era of federal deficit financing on a vast scale, and the combined pressures of rising private and government demand could generate another serious surge of inflation.

Main Worry
That's what "The Four" have been worrying about for some time now.

It was concern over inflation which brought the group into existence last September as an unofficial body lacking formal name or legal status.

Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson watched the value of the dollar sink new lows month by month, and broached his idea to President Eisenhower.

Need Consultation
The idea was simply that the officials directly concerned with money credit and federal finance—himself and Chairman William McC. Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board—should consult jointly and quietly frequently with the President and his top economic advisers. The latter are Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, and Gabriel Hauge, presidential assistant for economic affairs.

Eisenhower concurred. Since then he has averaged a meeting a month with the four officials.

Faced Recession
The meetings had hardly begun when the problems of recession took priority over the problems of inflation. Spending slowdowns, easier money and lower interest rates were the obvious answers.

To put the brake back on—ever so gently at first to prevent a relapse—will be a more delicate job. But all of "The Four" are determined that there will be no repetition of the events that followed the 1953-54 recession. Before people realized the recession was over, the recovery blossomed into a buying binge, and an inflation that hasn't been stopped yet.

Already "The Four" are weighing the variety of ideas—just about everything short of direct wage and price controls—to keep prices from shooting the moon.

Alertness Necessary
The country's success, all admit, will depend greatly on the alertness and courage of the Federal Reserve Board in pulling the credit reins at the right moment, and then feeding out no more selection, Coleman will give a free appraisal in the home at no obligation to the customer.

All in all, "service" at the Gettysburg Furniture Center can be translated into these words: "We insist on customer satisfaction."

King Creole Has Hit Role For Presley

Theater-goers are going to get a look at the new Elvis Presley—not the soldier, but the performer—when Paramount's Hal Wallis production, "King Creole," opens at the Majestic Theater Wednesday. This is the film which was finished just prior to the star's introduction into the Army and it is being heralded as a distinct departure from anything the famed rock-'n'-roller has yet done.

"King Creole," a good part of which was filmed in the colorful French Quarter of New Orleans where jazz was born, is based on Harold Robbins' best seller, "A Stone for Danny Fisher." Presley portrays Danny, the hustler who fought the hoodlums of Bourbon Street, singing his way up from the gutter.

Attractive Carolyn Jones, who won an Academy Award nomination for her work in "The Bachelor Party," has another provocative role as Ronnie, whom it wasn't safe for Danny to love. Top Broadway and television character actor Walter Matthau plays racketeer Maxie Fields, who owned Ronnie and Bourbon Street, and who wanted to own Danny as well.

Lovely DeLores Hart as the other girl in Danny's life; Dean Jagger as Danny's father; Vic Morrow as Danny's sworn enemy, all lend support to Presley in his highly dramatic and emotional modern story. Lilliane Montevecchi and Paul Stewart have important featured roles. "King Creole" has a musical score of thirteen songs, of which Presley sings ten. Michael Curtis directed.

credit than is needed to permit an orderly, sustainable growth. But success also will depend on the readiness of the administration to cooperate when the board decides to move, and the mere existence of "The Four" may help to weld a united front.

The inflationary wallop of a 10 to 12 billion dollars deficit in the government year just starting, Anderson believes, may be minimized through better scheduling of the government's spending programs. Every program starts modestly and builds up to a spending peak. To prevent the peaks from developing simultaneously, Anderson hopes, it will be possible to hold some programs back while others go ahead.

Improve Relations
In addition, the improved federal-state relationship fostered in the past year or two may be utilized, the secretary thinks, to prevent the federal government from pouring money into military or civilian projects in an area where a state is simultaneously making big public works investments. One or the other might delay its project for a year.

These are just samples of the kind of ideas which "The Four" are entertaining as they try to look beyond the recession.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—James E. Anderson, 62, vice president of Clayton & Co., worldwide cotton firm, and Thursday, Anderson joined the firm, founded by his father and uncle, after World War I. He was born in Jackson, Tenn.

Lincolnway Golf Center Has Expanded

A nine-hole, par-3 golf course for day and nighttime play opened today at the Lincoln Way Golf Center which is located along Route 30 on the Fayetteville bypass between Chambersburg and Gettysburg. The course, which features bent grass greens, has been added to the other golfing facilities formerly known as the Lincoln Way Driving Range.

The course was designed and constructed by Ralph E. Hair, proprietor of the Golf Center since 1950. Mr. Hair has been adding new golfing facilities to his business each year for the pleasure of the public.

When Mr. Hair's long range plans for the center are completed, which he predicts will be in 1959, the center will have every type of practice necessary for one's golfing pleasure, both young and old.

Facilities Increased
The golf range was revamped in 1955 and the facilities increased to include a rain shelter, new clubs and new lighting. Last year a modern pro shop was added. This houses the office, rest room facilities and a retail outlet for the business enterprises.

Also added in 1956 was a new, modern, 18-hole miniature golf course and a playground for the small children. The playground consists of a sandbox, sliding board and swings, all fully protected by a high wire fence.

The final phase of Mr. Hair's plan will be the completion of a regulation practice putting green. This is to be approximately 8,000 square feet in size, using new bent grass seed known as Pensacola.

Ideal For Staying Young
The Lincoln Way Golf Center furnishes all necessary golfing equipment for everyone's pleasure, plenty of parking space, well lighted playing area and abundant seating. Mr. Hair extends a hearty welcome to everyone to come out and browse around. The center offers an excellent opportunity to enjoy the mountain scenery and refreshing air while playing a game of golf on its beautifully landscaped par-3 course.

Golf is the game of a lifetime—for fun, or health and the ideal sport or staying young.

ELECTRIC HOME HEATING SUPPLEMENT

Rapid Progress Expected In Peaceful Use Of Atomic Power

The atomic age dawned suddenly on the world on a hot August day in 1945 when Hiroshima disappeared in a mushroom cloud.

That was 13 years ago and the dream of peaceful uses of atomic energy seemed far, far away.

But, a short time ago, just last December in the town of Shippingport, Pa., on the banks of the Ohio River, this faraway dream suddenly became a reality as the world's first full-scale atomic power plant, devoted exclusively to peacetime uses, kicked into life, began to produce electricity.

The Atom Is At Work

The awesome, fearsome force called atomic energy had met its master and calmly agreed to go to work for him in the peaceful, useful occupation of producing electricity. The atom, which lit the streets of Hiroshima with explosive fury, soon will be lighting the streets and homes of Pittsburgh with the soft, friendly light of the electric light bulb.

The atomic-electric power plant at Shippingport was designed and developed by the Westinghouse Electric Corp. under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission and will be operated by the Duquesne Light Co. of Pittsburgh, which built the conventional portion of the plant.

The heart of the atomic generating station is a 38-ton, multi-million dollar nuclear core or fuel charge, consisting of 14 tons of natural uranium and 165 pounds of highly enriched uranium. The core will act as a furnace for heating high-pressure water which will transform a second and isolated supply of water into steam for turning the turbine generators that will produce the electricity.

Electric Industry First

Appropriately, the first manifestation of the peaceful uses of atomic energy occurred in the electrical industry, which economists regard as the keystone of our constantly increasing standard of living.

The Shippingport, Pa., plant is only one of many similar and even more elaborate atomic power plants on the drawing boards and under construction in various places across the country.

Savings To Come

Experts in the electrical field believe that at the present rate of progress in atomic power plant development by private industry, such plants will be competing economically with conventional power plants well before 1960.

O. B. Falls Jr., marketing manager of General Electric's Atomic Power Equipment Div. at San Jose, Calif., believes that atomic electricity ultimately will be cheaper and more abundant in many of the nation's higher power cost areas than conventionally produced power.

His predictions apply only to larger plants in this country.

"Small power plants — in the 10,000 to 20,000 kilowatt range," he explains, "are of less interest in the United States because their costs are inherently higher.

Plant Costs Lower

"But in many foreign countries where fuel costs run much higher — generally from one and one-half to three times our fuel costs — the small plants are of economic interest even today."

Falls envisions a reduction of at least 25 per cent in the capital costs of large atomic plants in the next 10 years and another 10 per cent drop by 1980, his target date for economic competition with conventional plants.

The General Electric atomic expert points out, however, that conventional plants will continue to increase in efficiency in the coming years so that the chief goal of atomic development will be to provide a supplemental energy source, enabling the nation to keep pace with its ever expanding electrical energy needs.

Room For Expansion

Instead of replacing conventional fuel sources, peaceful use of atomic energy will provide the extra room needed for expansion of the American dream.

With another great power source joining in the production of electric power, the nation will be able to enlarge its already tremendous productive capacity and continue to improve its standard of living. At the same time, other areas of the world, less endowed with conventional sources of power, will be able to use atomic electrical energy to increase their own standards of living.

Electricity, the keystone of our economy, may soon become the

That's Our 'Furnace Room'

No furnace—no ducts—no pipe—no chimney. This electric heat panel eliminates all those items and more from the family budget. It is a wall-mounted convector which moves in the cold air via a gentle cycle, warms it, and distributes it to all parts of the room. Each room is controlled by its own thermostat.

Modern electric hot water heaters deliver hot water up to six times faster than the old storage-type heaters twice their size.

RIGHT LIGHTS CHASE TV GLARE

TV fans will find their viewing more enjoyable and easier on the eyes if they'll use more lighting, not less, in the viewing room.

"Most TV viewers know they shouldn't watch TV in the dark, so they turn on one dingy lamp which doesn't cast enough light," according to American Home Lighting Institute.

Not only does this cause a strain on the eyes, but it causes an annoying reflection on the TV screen, the institute said.

Dark Room Causes Glare
The less general lighting there is in a room, the more one particular light source will reflect. The resulting glare is usually enough to blank out even the toughest western hero.

To eliminate this glare and ease the eye strain, it is necessary to provide more general room lighting, the institute pointed out.

Many homeowners have done this by making a so-called "TV wall." They light up the entire wall behind the TV set by installing a cornice or valance along its top.

Diffused Light Is Pleasant
"The cornice or valance is a faceboard with tubes or bulbs behind it. It casts a pleasant diffused light which can't annoy the viewer," the institute explained.

"For balance, a ceiling fixture which can be raised or lowered is installed close to one of the side walls in the viewing room."

REMOVE FUSE FIRST

If you replace an old fixture with a new one, be sure you remove the circuit fuse first. The American Home Lighting Institute recommends this as a safeguard against shock. The fuse is reinserted when the job is done.

FOR CHILD'S SAFETY

For children's rooms and halls, recessed baseboard fixtures are available which cast a soft glow at night without getting in anyone's way, the American Home Lighting Institute reported.

DARK STAIR DANGER

Unlighted stairwells are a household menace. There should be a ceiling fixture at the foot and head of each stairwell with a switch at both ends so that light can be provided when walking up or down.

OFF-CENTER ACCENTS

Conversation pieces will attract more attention from your guests if you light-accent them with off-center ceiling fixtures. The bullet-type ceiling fixture is the most versatile for this purpose.

loadstone of world progress, and the once feared atom bomb, and the still more fearsome hydrogen bomb, may one day soon become the docile and trusted servant of mankind.

1957 Fixture Sales Reach $93 Million

Despite a substantial drop in 1957 housing starts, home lighting fixtures sales held close to the 1956 sales level of $93 million.

The American Home Lighting Institute, trade association of fixture manufacturers and distributors, credited this to consumer demand for more fixtures per home and to the increased remodeling business. Gale Cisco, Raleigh, N. C., relief pitcher, played football at Ohio State University.

FAMILY ROOMS REQUIRE IDEAL LIGHTING PLAN

Homeowners planning a family room should include good lighting in their plans, the American Home Lighting Institute advises.

"The many activities that take place in the family room — recreation, study, television viewing, hobbies — require functional, flexible lighting," the institute said.

Unless good lighting is installed, the room will be dull and dreary, and its uses will be limited. The money spent for lighting is just a small part of the total cost of the room.

Install Adjustable Fixture
"For almost all activities, good general lighting can be achieved by installing one or more ceiling fixtures," the institute suggested.

Adjustable fixtures meet most needs. Raised, they provide general lighting. Lowered, they cast specific light for a dining or recreation table below.

These same adjustable fixtures can also be installed off-center to provide specific downlighting for play areas, or for a chair, sofa, or desk.

Because they are installed on the ceiling, they take up no valuable floor space.

Wall Light Useful
Cornices and valances on windows and walls are two other light sources suitable for the family room. They can be used with the center and off-center fixtures as an added source of general room lighting.

For dramatic effect, they can be installed over draperies, or along all four walls. For television viewing, they are ideal. The diffused and indirect light they cast eliminates reflection on the TV screen, and eases eye strain.

Electric Heat Cuts Annual Overall Cost

Modern design trends incorporated with electric heating are helping make homes warmer in winter and cooler in summer. Also they keep the homeowner's pocketbook healthier all year round.

Architects and builders in all parts of the nation reported in 1957 that savings in construction resulting from installation of electric heating systems often not only pay for the system but lowers the overall cost of the structure. Furnace rooms, pipes, ducts, furnace and chimneys are eliminated.

They also add that modern, tight, well-insulated home construction has reduced the overall size of the heating system and keeps the home cooler in summer.

Since it requires no voluminous ductwork, electric heating permits more efficient use of building materials.

Electricity Gives Economy, Efficiency

Electric heating has proved itself during the past year in business and industry by providing two items which help make cash registers ring — economy and efficiency.

Electric heating has made its mark in new motels, gasoline filling stations, loading docks, guard houses and even in gas pipeline compressor stations.

In motels, the guest has a thermostat in his unit to provide instant warmth to the degree he desires. Units that are unoccupied are turned down. Motel owners report not only savings on operation but large savings on installation.

The government reports that more and more farmers are using electricity for space heating in their barns and milk houses and for preventing frozen pipes in pump houses.

GOOD LIGHTING COMPARABLE TO PROPER TOOLS

Take a tip from industry and light up the work areas of your home for maximum production with minimum strain.

"Factory managers know that good lighting is as necessary as proper tools," according to the American Home Lighting Institute. "It's the same in the home, too."

Any area in the home where close visual attention is required qualifies as a work area. These areas include the kitchen, bathroom, workshop, reading and study areas, and sewing corners.

Need Sink Light

Besides the ceiling light in the kitchen, work light is needed over the sink, range and over every four feet of counter. Such light is best provided by individual fixtures, shielded to prevent light from glaring directly into your eyes.

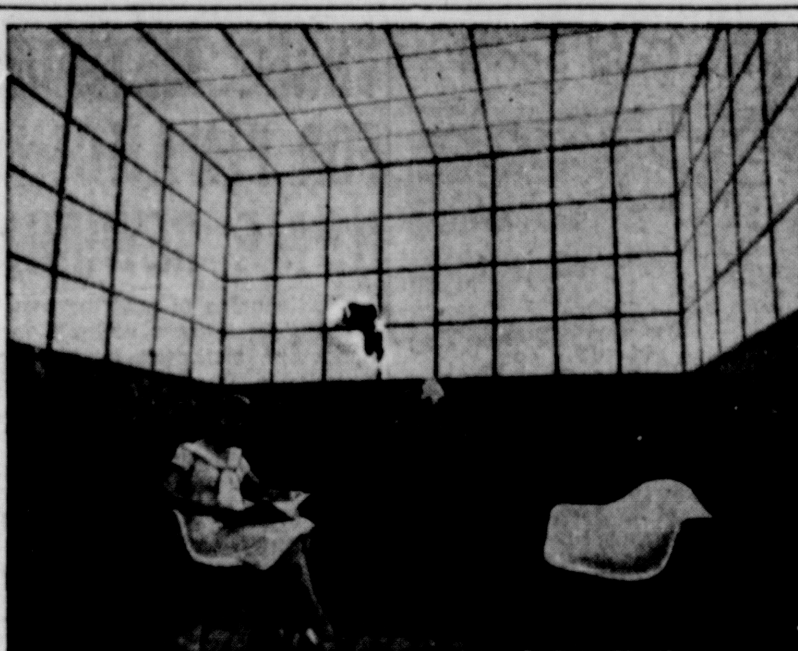

Proper bathroom lighting generally calls for a ceiling light and lights on each side of the mirror. The result is shadowless lighting that takes nicks and cuts out of shaving, and makes make-up easier.

Wherever the workshop is located — in the basement, utility room, or garage — a fixture is required four feet above the work table. A fluorescent fixture long enough to light up most of the table is generally best.

Reading, studying, and sewing areas also require individual lights. For versatility, these fixtures can be the pull-down type which are adjustable to provide the exact lighting needed.

OLDER PERSONS

Older persons generally require a higher temperature. Individual room thermostats allow them to dial their own warmth without disrupting the rest of the house.

AVERAGE HOME CAN BE HEATED AT $270 YEARLY

The average home in the Northeast and Midwest sections of the nation can be heated electrically for about $270 a year, and as low as $75 in the South, according to a recent survey.

The survey, conducted by the trade publication, "Electric Heat and Air Conditioning," and representing 200,000 residences heated with electricity, shows the cost just slightly higher than other fuels. Average electric heating costs for all sections was $113 per home.

Here's the breakdown:

	Breakdown	Given	Average	Annual
	Rate*	Heating	Rate*	Heating Cost
Northeast	1.65c			$284
South	0.85c			$ 75
Midwest	1.55c			$255
West	1.08c			$168

Average, All Sections 0.97c $113
*Rate per kilowatt hour.

In establishing the average, the survey showed these high and low rates for homes completely heated with electricity (Rate in cents per kilowatt hour):

	Homes	High	Low
Northeast	4,924	2.75c	1.1c
South	236,782	2.0c	0.75c
Midwest	26,403	2.7c	1.0c

Big Switch In '53

Up to a few years ago, electric utilities were not completely sold on promoting electric home heating. This was because peak electrical loads occurred during the winter months. Summer loads were low.

Then, about 1953, a big switch came for many companies as air conditioners went into millions of homes changing the electrical supply picture. Low summer loads became peak loads and utilities installed new equipment to meet this unanticipated demand. As a result, many companies now have a surplus of power for the winter months. To get the new winter business, these power suppliers now actively promote electricity for heating.

The homeowner starts saving on electric heat from the beginning. Installation of a conventional heating system in a home in a northern state costs about 10 per cent of the total cost of building. A resistance heating system costs as low as 5 per cent.

Other Advantages

Other advantages and money-savers follow. Compared to other forms of heating, electric heating is safer, cleaner and completely silent. It is draft-free, smokeless and soot-free.

less. There is no heater room, no furnace, no yearly maintenance fee and no storage of fuel. With no ducts, pipes and chimney, construction cost of the home is cut greatly.

Building authorities estimate there will be 3,000,000 homes heated by electricity within ten years and that by 1970, it will be the system selected for 40 per cent of all new homes.

"One of the fellows at work was thinking about a new water heater," says Mr. S. A. Ehlman of High Street, Biglerville.

"One thing he was concerned about was the cost of operation. So, I told him about our electric water heater. And how little it costs to operate. As far as I'm concerned, there isn't a better bargain anywhere. Anyway, I convinced him. He's going to place his order tomorrow — and he'll never be sorry!"

HEAT PUMPS DO DUAL JOBS FOR MODERN HOMES

To parody a famous old song, you can doff your hat and coat and leave your weather on the door-step if your house is equipped with heat pump.

In cold weather, these amazingly compact units actually extract heat from the outdoor air and comfortably heat your home. In the scorching, humid dog days of summer, when the mercury seems anxious to bust right through the top of the glass, the amazing heat pumps work exactly in reverse: it pumps moisture and heat from the home to the outdoors, leaving cool, fresh air in the rooms.

These revolutionary devices quietly and gently circulate comfortable, dust-free air to every room of the house, cooling in the summer and heating in the winter.

Size Of Models

The new models are small enough to fit in a closet, attic, or cellar corner, yet large enough to both heat and cool a three bedroom house. Certain General Electric Weathertron heat pump models can be located even in the garage, in the basement, over the laundry, or outside the home.

The pumps use only electricity and air as fuel to do their dual job of heating or cooling. This eliminates the initial cost of chimneys, furnaces, fuel tanks and coal bins, and cuts down tremendously on maintenance costs.

With windows and doors remaining closed on matter what the weather, harsh noises, pests, insects, dust and pollen are kept out. In muggy weather, the units soak up excess moisture so that the house stays dry, salt ponds and mildew and rust are avoided.

Automatic Action

When a sudden cold or hot spell develops, the unit automatically shifts functions to take care of the changed climatic condition. All the basic air conditioning functions are performed in a single self-contained unit that uses no water and needs no cooling tower. All that has to be done is to set the thermostat at the desired winter and summer temperatures when the unit is installed. From then on the air in your home will be conditioned the way you want it.

The attractive cabinets housing these wonder units have smooth contours, unmarred by levers, controls or gauges. Beautifully they are enameled, beautifully enough to be displayed and are easily cleaned. For those desiring a customized decorator touch, they can be painted or papered over to match the halls, or hidden from sight in a linen closet.

KEEP FIXTURE CLEAN

Clean your light fixtures regularly, advises the American Home Lighting Institute. A dirty fixture loses up to 50 per cent of its lighting efficiency.

Suppliers Favor Electric Heating

Seventy per cent of the power suppliers of the nation favor electric house heating when properly engineered and installed.

A recent survey by the Electric House Heating Section of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association of 420 power suppliers gave this summary of attitudes:

	Supplier	Per Cent
Favorable	244	58%
Neutral	108	26%
Unfavorable	68	16%

By giving the proper consideration to qualified statements of the suppliers in the neutral class, the percentage in the favorable class was raised to 70 per cent.

NEMA spokesmen explained that, as more of the suppliers expand generating capacity and other facilities needed to meet the increasing demand for electricity, they, too, will follow the trend toward greater promotion of electric heating.

LIGHT MIRROR

A dressing mirror is easier to use if it is lighted by fixtures on each side and on top, the American Home Lighting Institute advises.

FIXTURES SAVE LIVING SPACE

Space-saving and neatness are the biggest reasons why lighting fixtures are returning to favor after a decline of over 20 years.

The Women's Congress on Better Living held in Washington cited fixtures as eliminating the clutter usually associated with floor and table lamps.

"Fixtures are especially desirable where space is at a premium, or where small children are present," according to the American Home Lighting Institute.

Prevents Bumps

Since the fixture is mounted on a ceiling or wall, it takes up no floor or table space. Usually it is far enough out of the way so that no one can bump into it. And no cords are present to be hidden or to trip over.

Another reason for the increasing use of fixtures is the versatility now available. Formerly, a center-ceiling fixture was the only type.

NEW STANDARDS AIM TO DOUBLE LIGHT IN HOME

"Double your light in '58" is the theme consumers will hear increasingly this year in an industry-wide effort to raise the level of home lighting.

Through the newly-announced Light for Living standards and Live Better Electrically's Medallion Homes program, families will be urged to increase the number of fixtures per home to at least 25, from the present 11 average.

"The 20,000 Medallion Homes to be built this year will be dramatic evidence of why this increase is necessary," according to the American Home Lighting Institute. "More than 80 per cent of today's homes are far below the lowest minimum standards."

Without adequate lighting, homes cannot provide the comfort, safety, convenience, and decorative beauty which modern living demands, the institute explained.

Standards Guide Consumer
Lighting in the Medallion Homes, and in thousands of other new homes as well as in remodeled ones, will be based on the institute's Light for Living standards. These are the consumer's first authoritative guide to home fixture lighting.

Builders who meet the standards are entitled to display a Light for Living certificate, identifying their home as providing the best in lighting.

In addition, if the builder meets other qualifications of the Medallion Home program, he receives a bronze medallion to be permanently attached to the house.

Give Buyer Money's Worth
"Through the standards, we hope to identify new homes which give the buyer the most for his money," according to the institute.

"The Light for Living certificate and the bronze medallion will be of lasting value that will repay the owner should he sell the home later."

But quantity alone is not the primary goal of the fixture standards. Types and location of fixtures are specified on the basis of the light needed for the various activities in the home.

Kitchen Work Aided
For example, many people today have only a single ceiling light in the kitchen. This type of lighting forces the homemaker to work in her own shadow at the sink or range.

The standards call for another fixture over the sink to make food preparation and dishwashing easier. In addition, the standards require lighting, usually fluorescent strips, over work counters and over the range.

"Using the standards, a homemaker can literally 'lighten' her housework, and eliminate dangerous nervous strain."

Bedrooms Improved
Bedroom lighting is another type which standards seek to improve. Many bedrooms today, especially in new homes, do not have fixture light. Instead, a wall switch controls a baseboard outlet into which a portable lamp is plugged.

"While portable lamps provide certain desirable pools of light, they cannot provide the overall light that is needed in the bedroom," the institute said.

"More accidents occur in the bedroom than in any other room of the house. And most of these accidents are due to poor lighting."

Avoid Stumbling In Dark
The standards call for a ceiling fixture in each bedroom that is switched on at the entrance, before a person enters the room.

When he leaves, he turns off the light when he is out of the room, instead of stumbling through the dark after he turns off a lamp. Other areas in the home covered by the standards are the living room, dining room, bathroom, hall, stairs, exterior, basement, attic, and garage.

"Most electrical distributors and contractors are familiar with the Light for Living standards and can advise consumers on specific lighting problems," the institute said.

Architects, home builders and interior decorators also are using the standards to hold their work at high levels.

COLD WEATHER STARTS
Some of the homes-of-tomorrow have a switch at bedside which starts a supplementary heater in the garage. The small amount expended for this adds thousands of miles to the car and dollars to the owner's pockets by eliminating cold weather starts.

PICTURE WINDOWS
Many homeowners will literally bring the outdoors inside with the addition of picture windows. Such installations usually disrupt the entire heating system. But this problem can be solved by installing baseboard heaters to blanket the glass wall with a shield of comfortable warmth. This heats the room where the cold begins.

SUNLIGHT LIES JUST BELOW NEW HOME SUN LAMP

Today's land of sunshine lies just below the sun lamp, and it makes no difference whether its June or January, people all over can tan all over by turning over under this modern, handy and healthful substitute for old sol.

What is a "sun lamp?" Specifically, sun lamps are designed to produce ultraviolet light, and the ultraviolet light produced is exactly the same as one or more of the kinds generated by the sun. Certain of these lights tan your skin in summer.

These rays also activate vitamin D in the surface layers of the skin, and build up body defenses against certain diseases and infections. Other ultraviolet rays promote good health by killing germs. Sun lamps reproduce these same rays when want them and where you want them.

3 Types Of Lamps
There are three kinds of sun lamps for home use:

The bulb sun lamp is simply a 275-watt bulb with a flattened end, and it screws into any standard light bulb socket. It produces the kind of ultraviolet rays that tan and activate vitamin D in the skin, plus infra-red heat rays. It is intended for "spot" tanning. It sells for about $9.

The fluorescent sun lamp, designed for both spot and overall tanning and for activating vitamin D in the skin, may be used in ordinary open fluorescent light fixtures—for example, over a shaving or make-up mirror, or in an overhead installation. They do not produce infra-red or other heat, and are ideal in the kitchen where you can leave the lamp on for long periods of time and enjoy its health benefits without risking overexposure. They come in 20-watt, 24-inch tube and 40-watt, 48-inch tube. The former costs about $8, the latter around $13.

The complete sun lamp includes a stand and exterior metal reflectors, often adjustable so that the ultraviolet rays can be beamed in any direction. These lamps also produce more kinds of ultraviolet light than the bulb and fluorescent lamp types. One complete lamp on the market actually gives a wider range of ultraviolet light than you can get from sunlight itself.

A few notes of caution: Remember, some people tan easily. Others do not. If you burn, rather than tan, you'll have no better luck with a sun lamp than you do with the summer sun.

Pinpoint Stimulates
"A pinpoint of light stimulates," the institute said. "Enlarge it to a pool of light and it becomes warm and comforting. Extend it to fill a room and it gives a feeling of spaciousness and freedom."

If carried to extremes, pinpoints of light can become overly stimulating and irritating. The pool of light can become a harsh glare.

The variety of lighting fixtures available today makes it simpler than ever for the homemaker to bring on the mood that best suits her needs, while avoiding unpleasant results.

Provide Overall Light
Ceiling fixtures, for example, are best for providing overall illumination that is usually basic for any room. Pulley fixtures and certain wall fixtures provide excellent pools of light. Spotlight and bullet fixtures are good sources of light pinpoints.

Many homemakers make the mistake of using only one type of light, instead of combining them, the institute said. The result is uninteresting lighting.

"The average living room, filled with overall illumination, is pleasant at first, but soon the colors and shapes fade into nothingness and the room loses its appeal," according to the institute.

Use Pools Of Light
For emotional impact, the living room should have the added attraction of pools of light in key areas, such as in a conversation corner, on draperies, and over sofa and tables.

Then, for stimulation, pinpoints of light should be used. These can be provided by spotlights on certain pictures and art objects. Pierced shades on lighting fixtures also help.

"For centuries, pinpoints by a flashing chandelier have been used to stimulate appetites and dining table conversation," the institute said. "This type of lighting is still popular today."

RECESS LIGHT GIVES HOUSES CUSTOM LOOK
Recessed lighting gives a room a custom look, but it's tricky and requires some advance planning for best results.

The American Home Lighting Institute offers these tips to homeowners planning a recessed installation:

1. Generally a recessed fixture is best used to light a small area. This is because it casts light downward only and gives less diffuse illumination than a conventional fixture of the same wattage.

Commonly-Lighted Areas
Areas commonly lighted with recessed units include the soffit over the kitchen sink, foyers and halls, wall niches, window walls, and outdoor entrances.

2. If you plan to light a large area such as a living room with recessed fixtures, you will need one 9 to 12-inch fixture (100-150 watts) for each 40 to 50 square feet of floor area.

3. Determine your furniture arrangement so that the recessed light will fall where you want it. Once recessed lighting is installed, it acts to restrict the re-arranging of furniture to lighted areas directly under the fixtures.

No Cold Spots

This radiant wall panel eliminates cold spots with the flick of a switch. Made of glass, ceramic, aluminum and other products, it has no moving parts, thus eliminating maintenance and seasonal service. Its own thermostat controls the heat, instant heat. This type was tested and proved in the Antarctic.

CHANGING LIGHT CAN ALTER MOOD INSTITUTE SAYS

Your emotions can be affected by a flick of a light switch.

"Whether you feel happy or sad, gay or depressed, relaxed or irritable often depends on the type of lighting that surrounds you," according to the American Home Lighting Institute.

From birth on, each person is conditioned to react in specific ways to different types of light. By knowing what emotions go with each type of light, you can influence the way people feel.

Pinpoint Stimulates

THREE METHODS FOR FINANCING HOME REWIRING

The financing of rewiring can be done in three ways and all three financing methods have these features in common. They permit minimum payments of usually $5 per month, although no minimum is set in a few instances.

They will permit your payments to run over 12, 24 or 36 months. Interest rates, generally, are the same as those charged on Title 1 FHA loans, although there is some variation, depending on local conditions.

You can check locally to find out which of the three will best meet your particular needs. In some communities your electric utility company will buy up your note from your contractor and bill installments to you on your electric service bill. This method is especially effective in areas where banks do not promote small property improvement loans.

Banks Solve Problem
In most areas, however, the local banks, using Title 1 FHA, or their own form of property improvement loan will solve your problem quickly.

Even if you have an existing mortgage on your home you will find that rewiring is considered a justifiable expense and that further financing usually is available.

Home wiring can also be financed through individual electrical contractors who finance wiring work for their customers. They add interest charges to the gross cost and bill installments monthly.

During recent months, FHA has further emphasized the importance of adequate wiring as a feature which contributes to lower maintenance cost, by directing its regional offices that "no otherwise acceptable credit application should be turned down just because the first cost of the house was increased . . . to pay for certain quality items whose use will make it cost less rather than more to live there." Adequate wiring was listed as one of these "maintenance-cutting items."

TEXTURED WALL ABSORBS LIGHT
If you're considering textured walls in your new or remodeled home, more lighting should be a part of your plans.

"While textured walls are increasingly popular and certainly decorative, they present problems which only good lighting can solve," the American Home Lighting Institute explained.

Textured wall surfaces include striated plywood, stucco, natural brick and simulated brick paneling. They are available in a variety of colors.

Cracks Absorb Light
"Like a sound-absorbing ceiling, a textured wall surface is full of cracks and crevices that absorb light, making a room seem darker and smaller," the institute said.

"In addition, the textured wall must be lighted directionally, or else the textured effect is lost."

The best solution is to treat the textured wall as an accent and equip it with its own lighting. This can be done easily by mounting a valance or cornice at the top of the wall or using two or three spotlights on the ceiling, aimed at the wall.

Directional Light
"This type of lighting casts the directional light that creates an interesting pattern of shadows and highlights on the textured surface," the institute explained.

"At the same time, it provides a decorative effect without subtracting from the general room lighting."

USE GARAGE LIGHT
Don't fumble around in an unlighted garage. Install a center ceiling fixture, placing a switch in both the garage and in the house.

HEAT PANEL
No furnace — no ducts — no pipe — no chimney. This electric heat panel eliminates all those items and more from the family budget. It is a wall-mounted convector which moves in the cold air via a gentle cycle, warms it, and distributes it to all parts of the room. Each room is controlled by its own thermostat.

Americans Raise Lighting Standards

Slowly but surely, America's homes are raising their lighting standards.

In 1954, according to the American Home Lighting Institute, the average 1,200 sq. ft. home had nine lighting fixtures worth $32.16. Today, the same home has 11 fixtures worth $44.10.

However, minimum light for living standards require 25 fixtures worth $210.

BANISH COMMON HOUSE GHOSTS BY HOUSEPOWER

Do you live in a haunted house? Four out of five families do and are haunted by the ghost of low HOUSEPOWER.

Here's how you can detect your ghost. Watch out for these signs of an eerie presence.

Does "something" make your fuses blow — or circuit breakers trip open — with irritating frequency?

Evil Eye
Is there an "evil eye" cast on your iron — your toaster — so that they heat slowly?

Do lights mysteriously "blink" or television picture "shrink" for no apparent reason?

Do electric appliances act strangely even though the repair man insists there is nothing "wrong" with them?

Sinister Signs
Do ugly tentacles creep along the baseboards or "octopus" growths spring from outlets?

If you've been troubled with these sinister signs of the housepower ghost the chances are you need:

1. A large electrical "main" — this is where electricity enters your home. It should be large enough to carry all the power you need now and still permit adding additional major equipment, easily, with minimum installation cost.

Possible Needs
2. More branch circuits of larger wire — these are the "pipes" that carry electricity to the lights and appliances throughout your home. When several appliances must share a single circuit they become "undernourished," don't work properly, often cause "blackouts."

3. More outlets — the outlets in your electrical system correspond to the faucets in your plumbing system, except that you require many more electrical outlets than water faucets. But remember outlets alone are not enough; they must have enough branch circuits and large enough service "main" to back them up.

HEAT PANEL
No furnace — no ducts — no pipe — no chimney. This electric heat panel eliminates all those items and more from the family budget. 1. Generally a recessed fixture is best used to light a small area. This is because it casts light downward only and gives less diffuse illumination than a conventional fixture of the same wattage.

Commonly-Lighted Areas
Areas commonly lighted with recessed units include the soffit over the kitchen sink, foyers and halls, wall niches, window walls, and outdoor entrances.

2. If you plan to light a large area such as a living room with recessed fixtures, you will need one 9 to 12-inch fixture (100-150 watts) for each 40 to 50 square feet of floor area.

3. Determine your furniture arrangement so that the recessed light will fall where you want it. Once recessed lighting is installed, it acts to restrict the re-arranging of furniture to lighted areas directly under the fixtures.

RECESS LIGHT GIVES HOUSES CUSTOM LOOK
Recessed lighting gives a room a custom look, but it's tricky and requires some advance planning for best results.

The American Home Lighting Institute offers these tips to homeowners planning a recessed installation:

1. Generally a recessed fixture is best used to light a small area. This is because it casts light downward only and gives less diffuse illumination than a conventional fixture of the same wattage.

New portable dishwasher-dryer by Waste King Corp. shuts off automatically when door is opened, thus dishware, glassware, or silverware may be loaded at any time during the washing cycles.

OUTDOOR LIGHT CAN DISCOURAGE NIGHT PROWLING

You can discourage prowlers by lighting the exterior of your home, according to the American Home Lighting Institute.

This is the same technique used by industrial security experts when they floodlight their plant grounds.

"Robberies and thefts are less likely to occur when the criminal has to pass through a well-lighted area where he can easily be seen," according to the institute.

"Most homes don't have enough outdoor fixtures. Those that have fixtures use them only during early evening, when the occupants are expecting guests, or when they are out for the evening."

Outdoor lights should be left on all night, the institute advised. For extra protection, there should be fixtures over the front and back doors, on the sides of the home, and along the driveway.

In congested sections of larger cities, the problems is multiplied. Dark passageways offer excellent hiding places and cover the entrances of burglars through windows. Outdoor lighting here is almost a necessity.

Mrs. Murphy Needed Good Kitchen Light

Who put the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder? Maybe Mrs. Murphy did it herself, because she was working in a poorly-lighted kitchen.

According to the American Home Lighting Institute, many cooking errors can be traced to inadequate lighting. The homemaker is unable to read recipes clearly or measure ingredients accurately.

To correct this, the institute recommends separate fixtures, usually the long strip type, over the sink, range and each work counter.

This is in addition to a center ceiling fixture for general illumination.

Automatic closet switches are now available which turn on the closet light when you open the door, turn it off when the door is shut, the American Home Lighting Institute reported.

Fixture Selections Come In Many Styles

If you're planning to better your living with better lighting, you can choose from a selection of fixture styles, colors, and materials almost as broad as those for furniture and draperies—but in many cases you have to visit a distributor showroom to see the complete display.

Styles include traditional, contemporary and modern. Materials run the gamut from crystal through various metals to wood and bamboo.

If complete displays are not available at regular retail outlets, your electrical contractor can direct you to a distributor showroom. Some distributors open their showrooms to consumers at all times.

ELECTRIC HOME HEATING IS HERE!

NEW LOW ELECTRIC RATE* Makes Electric Heating Practical For Today's Modern Home

Now you can have it . . . Electric heat for your home . . . the most important development for the modern way of living. Electric heat that warms without flame . . . without dirt or drafts. Electric heat that requires no furnace . . . only the simplest equipment, inexpensive to install. Electric heat that needs little or no care or attention. Electric heat that is as safe and clean as electric light. Electric heat that forever eliminates the problems of fuel supply and fuel storage. Electric heat now made economically practical for modern homes by a NEW LOW ELECTRIC RATE.

Although Electric heat still costs more than the home heating method you're using now—it's well worth it—because in a properly insulated home Electric heat gives you special benefits you just can't enjoy with any other type of fuel! And here they are—

Electric heating gives you more space. Since you don't need a furnace—you don't need pipes or flues—you don't even need a chimney! All the space in your home is living space. Your builder can point out additional space-saving ideas. And don't forget—when you save space, you save money! No wonder you can install electric heat for less than any other kind of heat!

Room-by-room temperature control. Like the living room cool—and the nursery cozy? Want less heat on the sunny side of the house—more in chilly rooms? Want to turn off the heat in that unused guest room—or turn it up in the bathroom on cold mornings? Then, you want electric heat! You have an individual thermostat in every room, and you get exactly the heat you want. It sounds fabulous—but, with electric heat, it's just routine!

And it's so quiet! No noisy blowers . . . electric home heating is as silent as electric light! It's easy on the nerves. You sleep comfortably all night long.

How about service and repairs? You can forget them! You never have to order—or store—fuel. There's no need for service calls. You don't have to worry about repair bills. Electric heat is automatic and trouble-free.

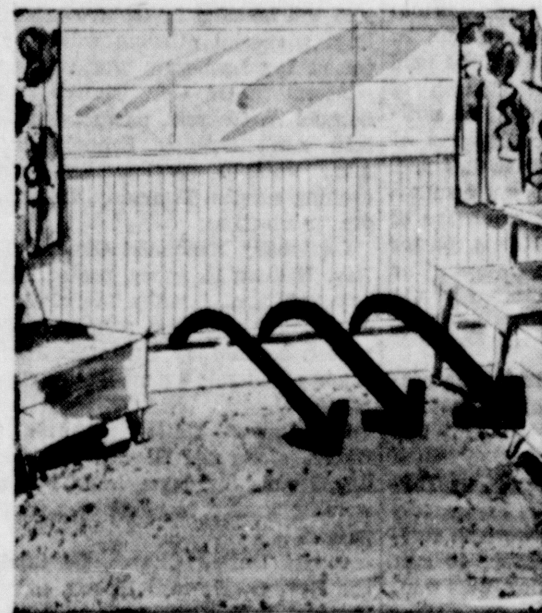

Of course, electric heat is clean—and safe—and efficient. Those are advantages you expect from electric living! And they're some of the reasons why almost a half million American homes are now heated this modern way!

Why wait? Find out today what electric home heating can mean to your home and your family! Just give us a call for details—no obligation of course. Or, if you prefer, fill out and mail the handy coupon below.

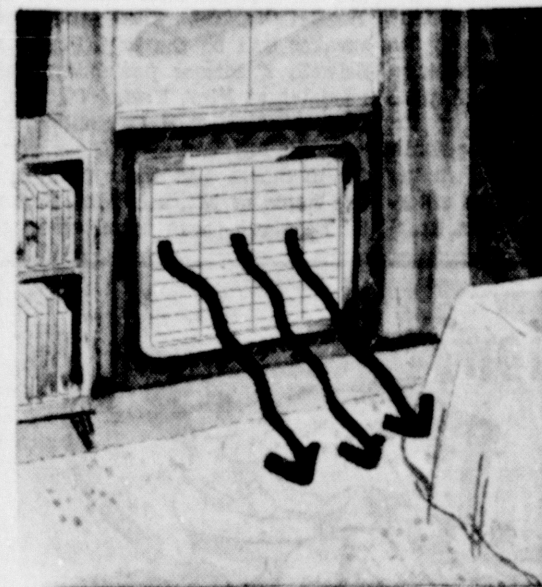

Metropolitan Edison Company

HOW ABOUT YOUR HOME?

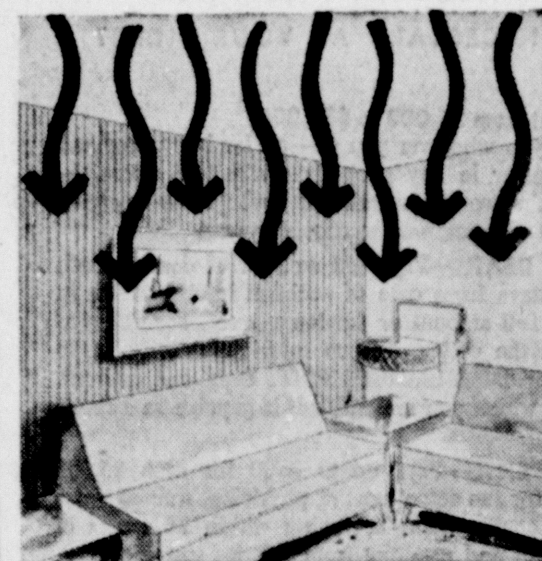

There's a size and type of electric heating unit for every room—and incidentally, for every decorating taste. Maybe you prefer baseboard units—or wall panels—or heating cable, hidden in the ceiling. Your builder and heating contractor will know which is best for you!

Baseboard units . . . installed around the perimeter of the rooms give a uniform degree of heat over a wide area, to offset temperature variations along the glass and outside wall areas. They blend into baseboards—give you flexibility in room decoration and furniture arrangements, and can be painted to match room decor.

Wall Panels . . . radiate heat into the room. They can be installed on any wall, but are most effective when used on outside walls and under windows. Some depend on air movement for heat distribution.

Radiant ceilings . . . with heating cable embedded in ceiling plaster and completely hidden from view. A thermostat is the only visible evidence of a heating system and the whole ceiling emits radiant heat to the occupants below . . . just like the sun.

Kiddies Enjoying Tot-Lot Facilities

Pre-school age children of the community are not enjoying daily play at the newly formed Tot-Lot on Maple Ave. The Tot-Lot is the current project of the Junior Woman's Club of Littlestown and was begun a year ago. In June of 1957, the club was granted permission by the borough council to equip the south-west portion of the community playground suitable for a play area for tots one to six years.

The lot, 100 by 50 feet, was then excavated and grass seed was later sowed. A six foot chain link fence was purchased and later installed by the husbands of club members. The following equipment has recently been placed: A health ladder, three seat swings, three belt swings, a sliding board and three benches. The club was assisted with the purchase of equipment by local service and civic organizations. A sandbox was recently donated by local residents, and will be installed at the Tot-Lot shortly. Through coming fund raising projects to be sponsored by the club, additional equipment will be placed on the lot.

The Tot-Lot is maintained by the Junior Woman's Club and it is hoped that the intended use of the play area for small children will be respected, and the project will prove a great asset to the community.

VFW CONDEMN KREMLIN FOR ITS MURDERS

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The 39th annual state convention of the Pennsylvania Veterans of Foreign Wars has adopted a resolution condemning the Kremlin for "murdering and imprisoning" Hungarian freedom fighters.

The resolution was introduced Thursday by Anthony Cavalcante, former Democratic congressman from Uniontown.

Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court addressed the convention. He called for official condemnation of the "kidnaping" of nine American airmen imprisoned in East Germany after their helicopter was forced down by bad weather June 7.

Cooties Elect
Louis G. Feldman of Hazleton, junior vice commander-in-chief of the national VFW said the United States should try to keep the friends it has rather than make new ones.

Meanwhile, the VFW Military Order of the Cootie, which cares for hospitalized veterans, elected

Senate OK's Fleming For Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has unanimously approved President Eisenhower's nomination of Arthur S. Fleming to be secretary of health, education and welfare.

Fleming, 53-year-old president of Ohio Wesleyan University, would succeed Marion Folsom. The White House announced in May that Folsom was leaving between July 15 and Aug. 1.

Fleming previously has been director of the Office of Defense Mobilization and as a member of the Civil Service Commission.

LONDON (AP)—A Moscow radio commentator Wednesday charged that flights of American H-bombers toward the Soviet borders are keeping the world "practically on the brink of war."

The broadcast renewed a charge which the Soviets pressed unsuccessfully in the U. N. Security Council three months ago. The purpose apparently was to make some propaganda capital out of the flight of an unarmed U. S. Air Force cargo plane which strayed over Soviet Armenia June 27 and was shot down by Soviet jet fighters.
